Hearse Drivers' Union.
The Railroad Unions.
Jesuits Expelled.
Mr. Hoover's Fortune.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.

ARRIVING HERE, in mild, foggy weather, two typical pieces of modern American news attract attention.

Drivers of hearses and funeral automobiles, organized in a strong and foolish union, announced that no private citizen would be permitted to drive his own automobile in a funeral procession.

You might say "Chicago's citizens would never tolerate that," but American citizens, even in Chicago are, as Northcliffe said, very docile. Prohibition, bootlegging and crime have taught them to stand anything. Also, citizens are not organized; hearse drivers are organized.

WHEN UNITED STATES Attorney George E. Q. Johnson buried his mother here Tuesday, his friends, to show respect, joined the procession to the cemetery in their private cars.

The union stopped the funeral, and sent the private cars home.

That was only annoying, and possibly a little humiliating, for high-spirited Chicago.

THE NEXT incident, in another funeral procession, was more serious.

The funeral was that of Louis Lakin, 18-year-old captain of a high school basketball team, shot to death last Sunday, when he tried to "crash" a dance.

A private automobile, filled with high school pupils, joined the funeral procession, and was seen by the union hearse driver.

He stopped the funeral, and forced the young people to pull out of line, regardless of the fact that a heavy coal truck was coming in the opposite direction. In the crash, Dolly Rand, 17-year-old high school girl, was killed. Nine other high school children were injured, two dangerously hurt.

ON TWO LATER occasions, the same funeral was stopped, for union warnings. The corpse might well ask:

"Am I being buried or am I organizing a union?"

Mr. Green, head of the federation, will warn the hearse union that extremes often lead to dangerous competition.

Some Chicagoan might organize a "Cremate you in your own home, bury the ashes in your own backyard" enterprise, to make funerals peaceful.

THE OTHER typical "incident" is regular news. Jack de Marco, bootlegger by profession, gave a party at Rockford, Ill., to celebrate his release from Leavenworth Penitentiary.

THREE MEN, entering while the phonograph was crooning, asked, "Where's De Marco?" showed badges and said they were prohibition agents. De Marco knew better. His face turned white, and stayed white. Five shots killed him, after his wife, four children and the guests had been forced into another room. Three shots were fired into the back of his head, as he lay face down on the floor.

Legs Diamond's numerous recoveries from being shot make it necessary for gunmen to take infinite pains.

De Marco had "squealed," and in his world, you die for that.

TRAVELING FROM New York to Chicago and on to the Pacific ocean, starting this time on the New York Central's "Advance Century," a few weeks ago on the Pennsylvania's "Broadway Limited," you realize the national value of the great railroad unions, as far from a funeral-blackmailing racketeer union as prohibition is from temperance.

IN SPITE of bad times, less employment and with wage reductions planned, the work of running a train weighing millions of pounds 1,000 miles in 20 hours, through all kinds of weather, is attended to, skilfully, conscientiously, passengers sleeping soundly, in absolute security.

ONLY WELL ORGANIZED men, proud of their work and their independence, could build up such an institution as the American railroad system.

Instead of being demoralized by conditions that have upset and "rattled" so many of our "best minds," railroad union men are intensely concentrated on their work, the safety of the train and the passengers.

AMERICAN RAILROAD management justifies anything that the government may do to help tide over present conditions, for which the roads are not responsible. If government can afford five hundred millions to help finance repair its mistakes, it might well afford twice as much for the railroads, that are the victims of industrial conditions.

Few realize what has been done and spent to create and constantly improve the railroads of America.

George M. Pullman was proud of his one car, that carried Lincoln from Chicago to Springfield, Ill., Pullman selling the ticket that entitled Lincoln to half of one berth.

It was, for those days, a heavy, strongly built car, finest in America. But the whole car weighed 10,000 pounds less than the wheels and trucks on which a modern Pullman car rolls over steel rails of a weight and quality that old Vanderbilt could not have imagined.

THE DAY'S BIG news, historically, is the expulsion of Jesuits from Spain, accompanied by confiscation of their property.

According to the Associated Press, the real estate of the Jesuits is inconsiderable, amounting to only thirty millions of dollars, churches, schools, and their contents in-

PLANS MENU AS 2,000 CLAMOR TO SEE DEATH

'Two Gun' Denounces Girl In Last Hours of Life 'For Going With Cop'

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—On his last day on earth, Francis (Two Gun) Crowley snarled at the proffered love of his former sweetheart and turned his full attention to thoughts of juicy steak and plenty of dessert.

When 17-year-old Helen Walsh arrived at Sing Sing prison with a court order permitting her to see Crowley "at the warden's discretion," the scrawny youth who is to die tonight for the murder of a policeman, told Warden Lewis E. Lawes:

"I want nothing to do with her. I hear she's going with a cop. I don't want to see anyone but my family."

MAKES OUT MENU

Miss Walsh was with Crowley, known as a "cop-killer," when he committed the murder for which he is to die tonight. She was with him, too, when he was captured in a siege by police on a West Side apartment, together with Rudolph (Fats) Duringer, who was executed recently for slaying a dance hall hostess.

Miss Walsh's testimony at Crowley's trial helped convict him.

While Warden Lawes was telling Helen Walsh in the prison office that Crowley scorned her, Crowley made out the menu for his final meal. He said:

"I'll have a big juicy T-bone steak with lots of mashed potatoes, salad, cake, jelly, bananas, coffee and ice cream and a box of cigars."

2,000 SEEK TICKETS

More than 2,000 persons have applied for tickets to see Crowley die tonight.

Meanwhile, the 20-year-old killer whom defense alienists classified as a "moral imbecile," and who can scarcely write his name, continued to cut out the last of the paper toys he has been making in his cell and stole glances at a picture of the electric chair pasted on his cell wall. Explaining with a leer why he had drawn and pasted up the picture of the instrument which will claim his life tonight, said:

"I didn't want to forget it."

Crowley is the son of Dora Dietz, a servant girl, and a policeman who never married her, his attorneys said. Shortly after birth he was taken to the baby farm of Mrs. Anna Crowley, who raised him. Growing into adolescence with a mind retarded, he turned from school to tawdry dance places and shady resorts.

PLOTTED ESCAPE

His name was linked with a series of holdups. Then came an alarm for him in the killing of the "dime-a-dance" hostess, Virginia Brannen—for which Duringer died—and Crowley shot dead Patrolman Frederick Hirsch, who came upon him and Miss Walsh in a parked automobile.

Since his incarceration in Sing Sing, Crowley has plotted to escape with a home-made bludgeon and knife and has sought to win freedom for Patrick O'Brien, 19, serving 20 to 40 years for a holdup Crowley said he had committed. O'Brien won a new trial as a result, but a jury refused to believe Crowley's story.

STATE DROPS MELLON FIRM

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Contract for the purchase of all gasoline for state-owned cars has been awarded to the Atlantic Refining and American Oil Company, the Department of Property and Supplies announced today.

The contract eliminates entirely the Gulf Oil Company, controlled by the Mellon interests.

The American Oil Company was given the contract in 42 counties of the state on the basis of a bid more than three cents less than the retail price. In less populous counties where the American Company has few or no stations the contract was awarded to the Atlantic Company at two cents less than retail.

Both the Atlantic and Gulf companies entered exactly the same bids for gasoline and oil. The Atlantic company was given the preference on the basis that it is "a Pennsylvania company," operating only in this state under that name, John L. Hanna, the secretary, said.

The awarding of the contracts followed the demand of Gov. Gifford Pinchot that all purchases be made from the big companies which offer heavy discounts. Because both the Gulf and Atlantic companies have statewide service facilities all purchases formerly were made from them. Both gave the same discounts.

U. S. Liners Operate Bars, Ship Board Head Admits

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Chairman O'Connor, of the United States Shipping Board, today told a House committee under questioning that American lines operate bars outside the 12-mile limit.

O'Connor was testifying in the investigation of the House Merchant Marine Committee into the Shipping Board sale of the United States Lines. Representative Lehlbach (Rep.), of New Jersey, asked:

"Isn't it true that all American steamship lines except the Dollar services run bars, once the ships are outside the limit, and isn't it a fact that it is foolish to keep it secret, because the lines are thereby losing trade?"

O'Connor said:

"I believe that is so. I have heard men say, 'I'm going on a foreign ship where I can buy liquor.'"

O'Connor said the federal government sacrificed to the prohibition law $8,000 in liquor supplies in the 1929 transfer of the United States lines to the Paul W. Chapman Company.

PARK, JUDGE CONFER ON KLINE

TWO GIRLS FOIL BANDITS, 50 IN PANIC

Roadhouse Patrons Bolt As Young Bandits Flee Bullets of Watchman

More than 50 persons, many of them women, fled screaming from a barbecue early today when the night watchman fired several shots at two youths, frustrated in an attempted holdup by two girl employes.

The bandit pair entered the Orchard Inn, on Lebanon Church road, after midnight and asked to see the proprietor, K. Bolitho. When Ann Davis, 22, of Castle Shannon, cashier, told them that Bolitho was not in, one of the boys drew a revolver and snarled:

"Gimme the money!"

Nervously the girl jammed the cash register.

Several of the customers ran for the doors when they saw the gun. Others ducked under tables.

Lena Sandri, 23, of Castle Shannon, cook, called to Robert McKnight, 57, of Becks Run road, night watchman, who dashed through the swinging door with his revolver drawn and fired several shots. The rest of the customers started for the doors, and in the confusion the two boys escaped in a coupe without loot. Miss Davis said:

"I'm glad I jammed the cash register."

Bandits Bind 3, Get Loot Of $350,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Three bandits, who posed as bootleggers, today boldly held up the home of Harry Glemby, millionaire beauty parlor and hair-importing magnate, in East Sixty-seventh street, slugged a butler, and looted Glemby's private safe of cash and jewelry believed to total $350,000.

They made their escape, leaving Glemby, the butler and a governess bound and gagged, and Mrs. Glemby, once called "America's best-dressed woman," hysterical and helpless.

'Mike' Getto to Wed Kansas 'U' Graduate

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Virginia Hutson, 23, to Michael Getto, 25, line coach of the University of Kansas football team and formerly All-America tackle at the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Hutson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hutson, of Lawrence. She was graduated from the University of Kansas in 1928.

TRUNK SLAYER HYSTERICAL AT TRIAL

'Take Him Out,' Ruth Judd Screams at Alienist for State; Spectator Faints

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Winnie Ruth Judd leaped from her chair during her murder trial today to denounce Dr. Joseph Catton, of San Francisco, prosecution alienist.

Rising with tensed muscles and flashing eyes as the tall psychiatrist approached her chair during a brief court recess, she cried:

"You get out of here!"

She appealed to her attorney:

"Make him get out, make him get out."

SCREAMS AGAIN

Again confronting Dr. Catton, she screamed:

"I won't have you near me. You talked about me. Get out."

Dr. Catton backed away, then turned and left the room as defense counsel, the matron and Dr. George W. Stephens, the defense alienist, attempted to quiet Mrs. Judd.

The defendant finally was persuaded to return to her chair, muttering:

"I won't have him near me. He talks about me. He's acted like a little boy."

She sat nervously clasping and unclasping her hands, glaring angrily at the doorway through which Catton had disappeared.

Mrs. Judd is facing trial for the slaying of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, her friends, here last October and sending their bodies to Los Angeles in trunks. The taking of testimony started today following two days spent in selection of a jury.

SPECTATOR FAINTS

Spectators had stormed the stairway in an effort to reach Judge Howard C. Speakman's courtroom to hear the first day of testimony in the trial.

One woman jammed in the packed corridor outside the courtroom fainted twice before deputy sheriffs could force their way to her side. She was removed to an anteroom and revived.

J. J. Holloran, wealthy lumberman, named as a friend of Mrs. Judd and the two slain women, was among the crowd of witnesses brought into court to be sworn.

50 Girls and Nuns Flee Convent Fire

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Fifty girl students and nuns were forced to flee early today when fire swept one end of a dormitory of the Franciscan Convent at Sylvania, near here.

The blaze was discovered in the furnace room at 5:40 o'clock and the fact that it is the custom of those at the convent to rise at 5 a. m. probably averted a panic.

TRIAL DATE MAY BE SET SATURDAY

Butler Lawyers Sought as Aides to Defense; State Troopers to Guard Court

A date for the trial in Butler County of Mayor Charles H. Kline likely will be fixed Saturday, District Attorney A. T. Park indicated today following a conference with Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County.

Judge Graff, sitting here this week, also is presiding at trials in Butler County, since the death of Judge James O. Campbell.

ENGAGES HOTEL SPACE

Judge Graff informed Park, the latter said, that in event a successor to Judge Campbell is not named meanwhile, he would go to Butler Saturday and confer with the Butler County prosecutor, E. H. Negley, regarding a date for trial of Kline and his deposed supplies director, B. L. Succop, indicted on charges of irregularities in office, and granted a change of venue by the State Supreme Court. The trial will be held during the March term of court.

Park said that on his visit to Butler yesterday he engaged the entire top floor of the Nixon Hotel for his staff and witnesses during the trial.

State police of the Butler barracks will aid the two tipstaves of Butler County in keeping order and handling the courtroom crowds. Park was assured by Prosecutor Negley.

SEEK BUTLER STAFF

Among the Butler County attorneys being considered by Charles B. Prichard and E. G. Coll to aid in the Mayor's defense are said to be James M. Galbreath, former judge and district attorney of Butler County; John and W. X. Murrin, brothers, and leading lawyers.

Witnesses, of whom there will be about 60 for the Commonwealth, and more than 40 for the defense, will be transported by bus to Butler on the days their testimony is needed, according to both Park and defense counsel, that no more of their time may be taken than is absolutely necessary.

OPPOSE BROWN ON RADIO BOARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—President Hoover today nominated Thad Brown, of Ohio, to be a member of the Radio Commission in defiance of the opposition of Chairman Couzens, of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. A contest was promptly predicted.

As the nomination reached the Senate, Senator Couzens gave notice of his intention to fight confirmation. He previously had informed the President of his opposition.

The Senator did not name his grounds, but it is understood he regards the Brown appointment as a political one.

It seems certain that the Ohio Republican leader will be opposed by a political lineup in the Senate.

Predictions were made in the Senate that his confirmation would be defeated. The nomination will be taken up shortly by the Interstate Commerce Committee. Brown has the indorsement of Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio.

DIRECT RELIEF BEFORE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—An appropriation of $375,000,000 for direct federal relief for the unemployed was recommended to the Senate today by one of its committees despite President Hoover's opposition.

The Manufacturers' Committee voted 6 to 2 to report the Costigan-LaFollette bill authorizing $125,000,000 for the present winter and $250,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

The committee's action places squarely before the Senate the proposal for direct appropriations from the Treasury to aid the jobless. Early consideration by the Senate will be demanded by the bill's sponsors.

Dry Raids Here Set Record for Division

More liquor raids were made in Western Pennsylvania in December than in the two other divisions of the Third Prohibition District combined, according to figures given out in Philadelphia today. Lytton Strachey, Famed Biographer, Dies

INKPEN, Berkshire, England, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Lytton Strachey, one of the most prominent biographers of his time, died here today after an illness of many weeks. He was 52.

Strachey's fame came to him because of his genius for writing vivid, historical biographies. He was a mild "debunker," one of the very first of his kind, but his realism was so subdued compared to some extremists that his works were considered almost conservative.

His best writing was done in humanizing Victorian England.

He was born in 1880, the son of Sir Richard Strachey, an Indian administrator, and was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge. His early works were done for English reviews and his first popular recognition came in 1918 with publication of "Eminent Victorians."

His best-known book was "Queen Victoria," published in 1921. It was regarded as a great achievement in picturesque presentation, not only of the Queen, but of the whole Victorian epoch. In 1928 he again demonstrated his art of making history live with his "Elizabeth and Essex."

The author was taken ill with paratyphoid fever last December.

Mr. Strachey was of scholarly aristocratic appearance, with the tall, thin figure and long, narrow face becoming to the cloistered thinker. He wore a great red beard.

GIBBONS' MANCHURIAN BROADCAST HEARD 'ROUND WORLD

JAPANESE ARMY COMMANDER TELLS AIMS

Hearst-NBC Hookup From War Zone Marks Epoch In Radio; Reception Clear

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Hailed by radio experts, editors and publishers as the outstanding achievement of radio news co-operation, the first broadcast from the Sino-Japanese battle front was acclaimed today as epoch-making.

The joint talk made by Gen Shigeru Honjo, commander of the Japanese troops in Manchuria and Floyd Gibbons, unrivaled headline hunter assigned to cover the war in the Far East by International News Service, was literally heard around the world.

The first radio broadcast ever made from the headquarters of an army in the field was relayed from Mukden to Tokio whence it was sent speeding across the Pacific for transmission in the United States.

From Pittsburgh and Oakland, Cal., the speeches were rebroadcast to Europe, South America and Australia.

RECEPTION CLEAR

Both Gen. Honjo and Gibbons were heard here and throughout the nation with exceeding clarity, though their voices came from a distance of 13,000 miles to the city, according to an estimate by the Hearst Radio and the National Broadcasting Company, through whose network the talks were made.

Gen. Honjo dashed in a plane from the front line of the Japanese forces at Chinchow to his general headquarters to make his speech.

Gibbons in his staccato rapid fire manner translated the general's words and then gave a stirring description of his adventures as a war correspondent with the Japanese army.

TELLS JAPAN'S AIMS

Gen. Honjo introduced by Gibbons, in part said:

"Our primary purpose in Manchuria is to strengthen our national security by clearing out the menacing forces that disturb peace and order, endangering the rights and interests of Japan and the lives of her nationals.

"At the same time, our aim is to revive and regenerate 30,000,000 people whose blood has been sucked for many years by ruthless military brigands."

The general ended with the statement he was gratified the talk would further friendly relations between Tokio and Washington and reach a friendly audience.

GIBBONS UNDER FIRE

Gibbons graphically told of his experiences. He said:

"I followed them all over and was right behind the army when it pushed from Newchwang to Panshan, from Panshan to Koupanrtze, and from Koupangtze to Chinchow.

"I was right with them in a box car that was as cold as Santa Claus' chimney and I was fired on in an attack that lasted 40 minutes.

"I saw a lot of Chinese dead and I saw one man who looked as though he was fending off a bayonet as he died. His right arm was extended straight up in the air, frozen.

"Boy, is it cold—and it was colder then. They have real winters over here, folks, believe you me."

BRUENING PLEA SEEKS TO SAVE CONFERENCE

History Will Deal Harshly With Reparations Parley Foes, Chancellor Says

International News Service.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—In a frantic attempt to avert long postponement of the Lausanne reparations conference, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening addressed a dramatic appeal to foreign statesmen today. He said:

"History will find it difficult to judge leniently those statesmen responsible for the catastrophic consequences of postponement of a definite settlement of the reparations problem."

Announcement of the Chancellor's appeal was made simultaneously with an official denial of a report published by the London Daily Express that Germany had suggested a plan for payment of reparations in the form of railway bonds. An official said:

"Germany is unable to pay anything in any form."

France Placed in Hole On Reparations Moves

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Observers of the muddled reparations situation focused their attention upon the French Chamber of Deputies today, where Premier Pierre Laval was to deliver a speech presenting his new cabinet.

The address the Premier had prepared was torn to bits by the London announcement of the indefinite postponement of the Lausanne reparations conference, hinting at a possible complete cancellation of the meeting, and the rapid-fire German refusal of the Anglo-French proposal for a further moratorium on reparations.

Laval in a tight position just a few days after taking over the position of foreign minister, had to reply to the chamber in such a way as to gain its confidence in his new government.

He had to avoid, if possible, an open break with Germany, and he had to consider the firm attitude of the United States, stressing that there must be no confusing of war debts and reparations with an eye to canceling one with the other.

RAIL LOSS CITED AT PAY CUT PARLEY

Presidents of Roads Give Figures Showing Earnings 33 Pct. Less Than in '29

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The railway presidents came forward today with the "important statistics" demanded by nuion labor in support of the plea for acceptance of a 10 per cent wage reduction.

The presidents asserted that gross earnings of the railroads in 1931 were 33 per cent less than in 1929.

Their statement presented a mass of data on railway earnings and answered the labor proposals at the joint wage conference.

The brotherhood and union delegates Tuesday had made clear they would not accept the arguments of the carriers on the need for adequate investment return but they wanted a true picture of railway financial conditions and a statement of what was needed to meet fixed charges and maintain credit.

Daniel Willard, chairman of the presidents' committee of nine, plunged at once into a statement of the financial status of the rails, saying that in 1931, 72 companies failed by $90,000,000 to meet their fixed charges.

The presidents made no substantial concessions to the labor program, but they assured the employes that individual managements would go as far as they could to remove the fear of unemployment. One of the principal points in the Brotherhood program was a definite assurance of sustained employment.

In 1932 there will come due and payable the principal of $405,000,000 railroad bonds, mortgages, equipment trust obligations and other loans, the statement explained. It said:

"These obligations must be satisfied to avoid bankruptcy."

TROOPER DEATH TRIAL TO OPEN

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Two Broughton (Pa.) youths will go on trial for their lives here Monday, charged with the murder of Sergt. John L. Frey, of the New York state police, March 18, 1931.

They are Stanley Chero, 21, and William Schemnitzer, 20, who are alleged to have entered a career of banditry when they lost their jobs as miners with the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Library.

The two had been arrested as robbery suspects when Chero held up Sergt. Frey, disarmed him and a fellow officer and later shot and killed Frey, the state contends. They were captured in McAlester, Okla., 10 days later.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schemnitzer, parents of William, are doing their utmost to aid their son at the trial. They have visited him in jail at Troy.

Mike Chero, father of Stanley, at the time of his arrest, was quoted as saying:

"I wouldn't spend 20 cents on him. He got into it and is smart enough to get out of it. I have no money for lawyers."

STAGE STARS FIGHT TAXES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Emissaries of stage, screen and motor world protested today to Congress that administration-proposed taxes upon theater admissions and automobiles would be a terrible blow all around.

A Broadway contingent, including Laurette Taylor, Jane Cowl, William A. Brady and President Frank Gilmore of Actors Equity, argued to persuade the Ways and Means Committee of the House that the legitimate theater was in no shape to stand a tax on tickets. C. C. Pettijohn, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., told the committee theater and public both would suffer.

Automobile manufacturers, to be heard later, established themselves in town for a vigorous fight.

APPROVAL NEAR FOR CREDIT BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—President Hoover's plan for extending aid to agriculture, commerce and industry—through a $2,000,000,000 Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation—awaited enactment today with Congress about to approve the final compromise bill.

A friendly House and Senate must ratify a conference report, ironing out all differences between the two branches. The bill then goes to the White House. Administration leaders hope the bill will become a law by tomorrow.

A board of directors will handle a $2,000,000,000 fund available for loans to federal and state banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, insurance and mortgage loan companies, federal and joint stock land banks, agricultural and livestock credit corporations, credit unions and railroads. It will be managed by a board of directors, including Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Paul Bestor, Farm Loan Commissioner, former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and three other civilians to be named by the President.

The Secretary of Agriculture was given special authority to manage a separate $50,000,000 fund, which might be raised to $200,000,000, in extending loans to individual farmers who cannot get crop loans from the banks.

REVOLT STARTS IN CATALONIA

MADRID, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—A serious revolutionary movement broke out today in the Manresa district of Catalonia province.

Convents and churches in the province were guarded and the situation forecast further disturbances throughout the country.

Here in the capital the Cortes itself was the scene of one heated phase of the controversy as Catholic and Socialist deputies fired charges of murder at one another in violent debates.

BILBAO, Spain, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Four Catholics were killed today in defending one of several churches and seminaries set afire by rioters in the vicinity of Bilbao.

Authorities were at a loss to check a rapid spread of incendiarism which broke out as feeling between Socialists and Catholics ran at a high pitch.

The four killed were attempting to defend a church at Gallarta against a wild mob of anti-Catholics.

No decision has been made by District Attorney Park as to the time for the trial of Roy D. Schooley, deposed City Treasurer; his associate, Arthur G. Burgoyne, and LaSalle Girts, charged with offenses growing out of the investigation of the City Treasurer's office.

Park and his assistants, it was said, have been so busy handling major inquiries that other work has suffered. Park has said that Schooley, Burgoyne and Girts would not be tried until the case against Kline and Succop has been finished.

Controller James P. Kerr had expected to receive the first volume of the City Treasury audit today, but it was learned Price, Waterhouse & Company will not be able to deliver the document until early next week. The anticipated report will contain all figures bearing on discoveries made in the handling of delinquent taxes.

Pontaine has asserted he is an American citizen, but has announced he will fight extradition to the United States.

United States Department of Justice agents questioned Pontaine for several hours at the Windsor Police Station last night, but he maintained silence regarding his alleged part in the Leavenworth prison break.

COAL MEN SEE SALES UNITY

Pittsburgh coal operators were optimistic over plans for stabilizing the industry following their return from Washington, where they conferred with Col. William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General, as to legal phases of a proposed regional sales agency.

Col. Donovan explained the use being made of the agency in other regions. The Pittsburgh party was headed by J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Attorney Don Rose accompanied them.

The marketing problem is being considered by a sub-committee of operators. A general meeting of all operators will be called before definite action is taken. In addition to the regional sales agency, action toward legislation to obtain tariff protection and a fight for fair freight rates are sure to develop.

LIFE FOR WIDOW IN BOY KILLING

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minnie Stull, 30-year-old Princeton widow, was convicted of first degree murder today with a recommendation of mercy for the fatal scalding of her 9-year-old stepson, Mickey, in a tub of water.

Judge Summers H. Sharp overruled a defense motion to set aside the verdict and sentenced Mrs. Stull to life imprisonment in accordance with the verdict which made that sentence mandatory.

The conviction was the second for Mrs. Stull. A Mercer County jury found the widow guilty of first degree murder with a recommendation for life imprisonment. She was sentenced, but later was granted a new trial and a change of venue to Greenbrier County. She was tried a second time here in December, but the jury failed to agree.

HAWAII STUNNED BY SECOND ATTACK ON WOMAN IN MONTH

MAN WHO FLED PEN NAMED ASSAILANT

Mother of Two Identifies Convict; Assembly Speeds Law to Aid in Cleanup

BULLETIN.

HONOLULU, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The story of a Japanese woman that she had been attacked here last night by Daniel Lyman, fugitive murder convict, was contradicted this afternoon by Emergency Hospital authorities, who made an examination.

By GILBERT PARKER
International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 21.—Stunned by a second outrage against Honolulu women in less than a month, authorities today redoubled their efforts to capture David Lyman, 22, convicted murderer, who escaped from Oahu prison New Year's Eve.

Lyman, a half-caste, was identified as the man who early today attacked attractive Mrs. Taka Okazaki, 29, a Japanese woman, after hitting Takio Harimoto, her companion in an auto on the head with a pistol and tying him to a railroad track about 20 minutes before a train was scheduled to pass.

DRIVES WOMAN HOME

After attacking and robbing Mrs. Okazaki, the half-caste drove her home, asking:

"Don't you recognize me?"

She and Harimoto, who had freed himself from the track, identified Lyman's picture as that of their assailant. He was bearded, they said, and police pointed out it was three weeks since his escape from prison with Luis Kaikapu, 25, also a convicted murderer. Kaikapu attacked Mrs. James Odowda, the pretty wife of an oil company executive, and was recaptured shortly afterward.

The attack on Mrs. Okazaki added fresh fuel to the controversy over the Massie murder case.

Before the territorial Circuit Court was an application for dismissal of charges against Mrs. Granville Fortescue, eastern society leader, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and two naval enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert Jones, formally accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai, one of the five natives suspected of attacking Lieut. Massie's pretty 20-year-old bride, Mrs. Thalia Massie.

TO RULE ON TRIAL

Territorial Judge Albert Cristy was expected to rule on the defense application tomorrow.

Deputy County Attorney Griffith Wight said he would seek to have the grand jury indict the four defendants today after defense counsel threatened to apply for a writ of habeas corpus unless the prosecutors took action looking toward a speedy trial.

Montgomery Winn, of defense counsel, said:

"It's an act of cruelty to keep the defendants in suspense."

Meanwhile the territorial legislature hastened passage of measures that would reform existing conditions in Honolulu. The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to make the office of chief of police an appointive one instead of elective, and the Senate passed and sent to the House the anti-loitering bill.

FIND CAR USED IN KIDNAPING

DENVER, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Finding of the motor car used by kidnapers of Benjamin J. Bower, 62, held for $50,000 ransom, gave police their first major clue today as relatives of the bakery corporation manager expressed fear that he had been slain.

An offer of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers was made by Denver officials after the car was found abandoned on the outskirts of the city. Fingerprints were taken from it.

The wife of the victim appealed through the press to the abductors not to kill her husband because police were called in violation of instructions of the men who took him from their home Tuesday night. She said:

"I cannot pay the ransom. I haven't the money."

Chief of Police Albert T. Clark said:

"They must do something soon. They can't hold him much longer. They'll either turn him loose or kill him."

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(Universal)—Born an aristocrat of imperial Russia, the daughter of the late Czar's consul general to Turkey, Mrs. Tatanio Aoutsyanroes, 32, was mysteriously shot to death in her apartment here last night.

Teacher of languages, Mrs. Aoutsyanroes was expecting several pupils as party guests and was arranging the living room of her five-room apartment when a bullet pierced her neck. Her husband, Peter, explained the strange murder, saying:

"I was in the kitchen. My son was asleep in his bedroom. My wife came running to me, screaming. I ran to a drug store and called police and doctors. When I came back, I took my wife in my arms and she died."

Police said they were working on the theory that Mrs. Aoutsyanroes or her husband had been in difficulties with Communists here and the shooting resulted.

OHIO PASTORS TO REFUSE U. S. AID IN WAR

Issue Stirs Spirited Debate; Organization of Million Men to Spurn Call Urged

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A resolution withholding its support from any future war was adopted by the Ohio Pastors' convention today after a spirited debate.

Several delegates protested the resolution went "too far."

The United States Supreme Court's refusal of citizenship to Prof. Douglas G. MacIntosh, of Yale University, who said he would refuse to bear arms against his conscience in case of war, was scored in another resolution adopted.

The anti-war resolution read:

"We never again will sanction or participate in any war. We will not use our pulpits or our classrooms as recruiting stations. We will not give our financial or moral support to any war. In the dilemna of loyalty to country or Christ, we will choose Christ."

Dr. W. W. T. Duncan, pastor of the Lakewood Cleveland Methodist Episcopal Church, objected that "this puts us on record as unpatriotic."

The Rev. Donald Timmerman, of Portsmouth, who said he was a chaplain in the World War, countered with the argument:

"In the war we went with the mob. We were bludgeoned into doinfi un-Christian deeds. The next time there is international trouble, if a million men refuse to go, there won't be any war.

"We preachers have the power to prevent that million from following the mob and we ought to do it."

FIRE ROUTS 13 IN BRADENVILLE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.—Thirteen persons were carried out or driven to safety, and five families were made homeless when fire swept a row of miners' homes in Bradenville, early today.

The fire started in the dwelling of Michael O'Shanskey. Neighbors carried Mrs. O'Shanskey, 75, from the house and then removed Tony Bemeno, his wife and one child from the adjoining home. Mr. and Mrs. Leno Leply and Mr. and Mrs. John Bepling and three children were assisted from the same dwelling. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Publemo fled from their home when it caught fire.

The loss was estimated by Latrobe firemen at $15,000.

For four days seven of the army's large bombing planes had "bombed" the tribesmen with food, dropping packages of provisions into snowbanks adjacent to the settlements.

DIARY OF SLAIN CHURCHMAN SCANNED

Sleuths Study Names Listed For Clue to Murderer; Three Theories Advanced

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A diary kept by Norman R. Bechtel from 1928 until the day he was slain was scanned today by detectives seeking a clue to the motive for his killing.

The day by day account of the activities of the 31-year-old church worker, who was stabbed to death early yesterday on an untenanted estate in Germantown, was found in his apartment, several miles from the scene of the killing.

MANY NAMES LISTED

An examination revealed the names of many men and women, but whether any of the entries would prove significant detectives were not prepared to say.

With not even a fingerprint found in Bechtel's bloodstained automobile, detectives advanced three threories for the slaying. One was robbery, another that Bechtel was attacked by a maniac and the third that he may have been a so-called "Hex" or witch victim.

Police sid, however, that they take little or no stock in the "Hex" theory. It grew out of the peculiar shape of some of the 12 stab wounds found on the face and body.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Bechtel was unconscious when found and died in a hospital less than two hours later. His automobile was found 12 hours later abandoned in West Philadelphia, more than five miles from the scene of the slaying.

He had been to Lansdale, Pa., to attend a meeting on church matters and was on his way home when he was attacked.

SEEK MEN HERE IN TRAIN THEFTS

Morris Newfield, chief of special agents of the American Railways Company, was expected to reach Pittsburgh today with warrants for seven persons believed members of a syndicate charged with the theft of $25,000 worth of merchandise from express cars over a period of seven months.

The existence of the ring was disclosed with the arrest of three men in Pittsburgh, two in Buffalo, four in Corry, Pa., and two in Cleveland.

Newfield said the plot was widespread and explained that the thieves stole valuable packages from express cars through a system of reconsignment and by dropping the parcels off trains en route between Buffalo and Cleveland and Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

BOY, 12, WORKS CHANGE RACKET

A very young "confidence man"—aged about 12—today moved Mrs. Celia Downey, 46, to wonder what's going to become of this younger generation.

It's hard to believe, but when Mrs. Downey, who lieves at 90 Allen avenue, Allentown, stepped off a street car at Warrington and Allen avenues, a boy whose appearance indicated he was a newsboy, stepped up to her with this polite request:

Mrs. Downey

"Lady, can you change a dollar bill?"

Mrs. Downey fished the change out of her purse at considerable bother and was rewarded with a thank you and a rolled greenback.

The boy ran.

Mrs. Downey unrolled the greenback. It was a cigar store coupon.

ELECTRA CRITIC OUT OF TURN

Possible police action against "Mourning Becomes Electra" at the Nixon Theater faded today as it was disclosed that Detective John Crouse, who characterized the play as "ungodly," had not been ordered by his superiors to review the show.

Detective William O'Bryan, who, with Crouse, constitutes the official censoring team of the police bureau, refused to sign Crouse's report. He said:

"I did't see the show and was not ordered to censor it, so why should I sign it?"

Lieut. Thomas Malone, in charge of the Detective Bureau because of illness of Inspector Frank R. Boyd, said:

"I don't know anything about it. The report is here. That's all I know."

Public Safety Director James M. Clark has been at his home for a week with a severe cold. His chief clerk, Robert Brown, said no orders had been given to censor the play, so far as he knew.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh disclaimed knowledge of censorship.

Meanwhile the report, neatly folded, reposes in a pigeon hole of the Detective Bureau and the show continues.

MELLON, HYDE VARIANCE ON LOANS CITED

Differences of 2 Cabinet Members on Legality of European Advances Shown

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two cabinet members—Secretaries Mellon and Hyde—were represented in the Senate today as being in disagreement over the legality of European loans made by the Wilson administration after the war.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, who was Secretary of the Treasury under Woodrow Wilson, charged that statements by the Secretary of Agriculture that the loans were "without legal rights" were "false in spirit and in fact."

MELLON LETTER

To support his contention he produced a letter from Secretary Mellon saying neither the Treasury nor the World War Debt Funding Commission ever had taken the position that the loans were made without authority of law.

The Secretary's letter, replying to one from Glass asking for a statement on the matter, said Congress had authorized loans to be made until the actual termination of the war. Secretary Mellon pointed out that the official end of the war was July 2, 1921, as fixed by President Harding, and not the date of the Armistice November 11, 1918.

PURPOSE OF LOANS

Glass said the loans after the Armistice were to insure against resumption of hostilities, among other things. He added:

"Many of the loans were made upon the insistence of the present occupant of the White House, who at that time was in charge of matters relating to rehabilitation of our allies.

"The Secretary of Agriculture, had he desired to be informed rather than eager to project this partisan fabrication, might have turned to the head of the cabinet table and asked President Hoover if he regarded $236,000,000 loaned to be spent under his administration to have been made in contravention of laws of Congress."

Glass added that it was "little short of disgraceful" for a man "enjoying the distinction of being a cabinet officer to be going over the country traducing a past president and falsely accusing two of his cabinet officers."

VESUVIUS DARK AFTER QUAKE

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Ancient Vesuvius presented a new problem to scientists today after fresh growlings and explosions last night.

The problem is: Why has Vesuvius' light gone out?

No one was hurt by last night's demonstration, which consisted of a light earthquake shock and loud explosive noises and rumblings underground.

As soon as the explosions ceased, the crater, which always has been aglow at night by internal fires, had become cold dark, and remained that way. Scientists today sought the reason.

An observatory, a military police barracks, a convent, a railroad and a hotel on the volcano's side "danced," reports said, during the disturbance, but remained upright. Their quake-proof construction saved them, observers said.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(Universal)—Will Rogers, Oklahoma's self-made diplomat, has the international situation all doped out. Sitting in the Hotel Savoy today, where he is awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Rogers from New York, America's noted rope-and-gun artist said:

$2,000 Fire Sweeps Baptist Church Here

Fire of undetermined origin swept through the Beulah Baptist (Negro) Church, Challont and Delmont streets, early today causing an estimated damage of $2,000. No one was injured.

cluded although Sir Joseph Duveen, or Herbert Samuel, given time might get half a billion for them.

The larger part of the Jesuits' holdings, stocks and bonds amounting to seventy million dollars, according to the Associated Press, are probably beyond the reach of confiscation. Jesuits, being highly intelligent, able to foresee events.

THE JESUITS have been expelled from Spain as they have often been from other European countries once before during the 400 years of work in Spain.

A most resourceful order attracting the highest intelligence of the church, they will know how to adjust themselves to conditions that doubtless seem to them temporary.

The charge against them is "placing allegiance to the Pope before allegiance to the Spanish republic."

This action by Spain's government following the recent burning of half a dozen more Catholic churches by Spanish Communists, shows intense anti-religious bitterness, but it is largely confined to the cities. The masses of peasants remain faithful to the church.

MR. CHESSNUT, editor of Pine Bluff, Ark., recently wrote asking:

"Is Mr. Hoover one of the richest men in the world? Is it true that he has millions invested in foreign countries?"

Congressman Wood of Indiana, answers one question, saying that President Hoover's fortune amounts to less than $1,000,000. Not much, considering that in his early thirties Mr. Hoover, as engineer, earned $50,000 a year.

Forty thousand dollars a year, plus his salary as President, minus very substantial sums that he gives away, is the President's total income.

As for his "enormous investments in foreign countries," this writer is able to state that they amount to less than one dollar.

President Hoover has no such investments.

U. S. MORTGAGE BANK URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A "genuine permanent mortgage bank" was urged before a Senate committee today by Robert Oakman, of Detroit, who said the pending federal home loan discount bank measure fails to meet the requirements urged by President Hoover. He said:

"The pending bill will not give relief to the working man who is trying to pay for his home. The bill provides for mortgage home loans as high as $15,000.

"This would mean at least a $20,000 home; a splendid place for the workingman, indeed. This sum should be cut down to not more than $6,000 or $7,000."

STEEL ASKS AID ON TRUST LAW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A two-year truce in the anti-trust laws as a "wartime measure of relief" was urged upon President Hoover today by Charles F. Abbott, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction.

Abbott said he told the President "destructive competition has driven prices to unreasonably low levels and eliminated all trace of profits." He said:

"Something has got to be done."

JOBLESS MAN KILLED BY AUTO

Justine Romer, 50, who has been living at the Helping Hand dormitories, died in Mercy Hospital today from injuries incurred last night when struck by an automobile in the Boulevard of the Allies near Bluff street. Raymond C. Cook, of 310 Sycamore street, said to have been driving the car, was held.

Four men were recovering today from injuries received last night in an accident which occurred when their machine struck a pole in Fornes street near Frick Park. They are Julius Berliner, 25, and Julius Steinetz, 30, both of 405 Hawkins avenue; Rankin; Sam Moskovitz, 407 Hawkins avenue, and Robert French, 336 Second street, Rankin. None was seriously hurt.

DAUPHIN SEEKS TALBOT TEST

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Counsel for the Dalphin County Poor Board today petitioned the local court to permit them to join the mandamus suit of the central poor district of Luzerne County in a test of the validity of the Talbot act, which appropriated $10,000,000 for relief purposes. The Dauphin County board previously had filed a petition of declaratory judgment designed to have a court test of the same measure.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper and former Attorney General George F. Alter have been engaged to argue the case for the Dauphin County Poor Board.

The latest petition of the Dauphin board is opposed by Attorney General William A. Schnader, who said:

"I am opposed to making this court test a political football."

Pittsburgher Must Pay Children $2,459

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell in Municipal Court yesterday ordered James H. Davis, of Pittsburgh, to pay $2,459 for the support of his three children in this city, the amount having accumulated on a support order.

The court also ordered Davis to pay $10 a week toward the children's support. Their mother died in December, 1929, of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Drys Raid 3 Places In Penn Avenue

Prohibition agents raided five places last night, according to reports made at headquarters today which said that one of the places was a resort in the rear of 1400 Penn avenue, where 10 gallons of moonshine were reported seized.

Other raids were made at 1239 Penn avenue, 1207 Penn avenue, 730 East Ohio street, and 144 Pius street. Quantities of intoxicants were reported seized in each place, agents said.

5 American Fliers Stranded in China

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Officials of the American and Canadian governments undertook further steps today to stop more American and Canadian aviators from coming to China to take Chinese government military jobs which do not exist.

Five American and five Canadian aviators were here yesterday with little money in their pockets after discovering the jobs they came to take are non-existant and that the Chinese government wants no foreign aviators.

Client of 'Portias' Guilty in Slaying

Her two women attorneys, Blanche Levy and Lois B. McBride, announced they would ask for a new trial. Sentence was postponed by Visiting Judge O. C. Kent, pending disposition of the motion.

AUTO LEADERS SEE SUCCESS FOR SHOW

Auburn Executives Here For Conference Point to Increased Sales in 1932

High hopes for the Pittsburgh Auto Show, which opens Saturday at Motor Square Garden, were held out today by N. E. McDarby, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Company, in charge of sales, speaking to 160 Auburn dealers, salesmen and service men in the Pittsburgh zone at a pre-show meeting today in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

McDarby said:

"The most gratifying fact is the eight shows already held in all parts of the country is the increase in sales and attendance at the shows over last year.

"We believe that the public will be even more discriminating in purchasing cars than ever before with their weather eye on mechanical excellence."

G. H. Kuhlin, chief engineer of the Auburn Company, described the new features of the 1932 Auburn and said that the most fundamental development this year is the dual-ratio which gives the car owner two cars in one.

MURRAY PLANS PARTY FIGHT

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, fiery Governor of Oklahoma, left here today for Columbia, S. C., and Asheville, N. C., leaving behind a strong indication that he intended playing a stormy role at this summer's Democratic National Convention. In an address, he said:

"If I go to the convention as leader of the Oklahoma delegation, I will be on the convention platform committee, and somebody is going to write a minority report.

"If I know myself, I'll scuttle every Wall street ship."

His audience applauded.

MANILA WOMAN THOUGHT SLAIN

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Members of the household of Mrs. Mabel Sedgwick Tait, 33-year-old wife of Edwin Tait, wealthy showman, who met a mysterious death in a fish trap today were questioned by Capt. Frank Krueger, chief of the Manila secret service, and by police who re-opened an investigation into the circumstances connected with her death.

Mrs. Tait's bruised and battered body was recovered from a fish trap in Manila Bay Tuesday morning. Police at first reported she had fallen from a stone wall at the rear of her residence into the Pasig River and had drowned.

Autopsy surgeons said she had not been drowned and expressed belief death was caused by a head wound. Tait said his wife had left a bridge party at their home and had gone into the garden "to get a breath of fresh air." He denied there had been heavy drinking at the party.

HEALTH THREAT SEEN IN LAX QUARANTINE

Medical Authority Stresses Penalty of Neglect to Report Contagious Illness

A serious threat to community health exists in the carelessness of individuals regarding the quarantining of contagious diseases, according to Dr. John R. Conover, county medical director of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Under present conditions, many families are neglecting to report mild cases of contagious diseases, and children are allowed to go to school and older members of the family go about their usual occupations without thought of the safety of others, he said.

PENALTY OF NEGLECT

The law provides fine and imprisonment for neglect to report a contagious disease to the proper health authorities. This provision, however, rarely has been enforced and health authorities have depended largely upon the watchfulness of physicians.

Dr. Pauline Martin, medical inspector of the schools of Mt. Lebanon Township, reports there have been an annoying number of failures to report disease in Mt. Lebanon. She places most of the responsibility on the individual but she has suggested to the Board of Health that the physicians of the township be reminded of their responsibility to report cases.

FREE EXAMINATIONS

Members of the Allegheny County Medical Society are donating their services in giving physical examinations to hundreds of men at the Helping Hand Association and at both branches of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor.

Pattern 2274
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

A stunning model that proves why two colors in one frock are smarter than one. The bodice, with its very new sleeves, has been fashioned of pale green flat crepe dotted in black. The skirt, beautifully seamed, uses black crepe. An attractive pin may be used at any position to hold the draped neckline in place. If short sleeves are desired, the snug cuffs may be omitted and the sleeves will flare gracefully.

Pattern 2274 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards light and 3⅛ yards dark fabric, 39 inches wide.

SQUIRE'S TRIAL CONTINUED

The trial of Justice of the Peace John G. Metz, of Kennedy Township, and Constables Jacob Esau, of Neville Township, and William Berg, of Avalon, charged with blackmail, extortion and conspiracy to blackmail, was continued yesterday by Judge James H. Gray, who set next Monday for the hearing. The defendants made no defense, and the continuance was ordered after most of the state's case had been presented.

The charges were the result of an alleged "shakedown" of Angeline Miller, of Robinson road, Stowe Township, December 5, when it was alleged the woman paid $75 to "fix" a liquor charge following a raid.

It was alleged by the commonwealth that no record was made of 25 cases in which slot machines were reported seized in raids, and that in about 30 cases charges of keeping a disorderly house were made in cases growing out of liquor raids, and that fines were assessed.

New Times and New Methods

The Daily Record, a leading national trade publication, commenting upon our plan of going directly to the public to learn its wants and price wishes, says:

> "Right now the public is telling stores what it wants. It goes through its reserve of apparel, accessories, etc., and if it doesn't need additional items, it does not buy. Those stores which are canvassing in some way or other to determine just what the public wants are working in the right direction."

The public is showing its approval of the Joseph Horne Co.'s efforts to meet the public's desires in a direct and specific manner.

New Officers Named By Manufacturers

Other officers elected were T. W. D. Addenbrook, Beaver; Louis Ingram, Beaver Falls, and R. H. Pauley, Beaver, vice presidents; J. D. Brubin, New Brighton, treasurer; Charles E. HAMBURG & ONIONS

Mix one pound Hamburg, 5 teaspoons Gulden's Mustard and one teaspoon salt. Make large flat cake with half the mixture, cover with thinly sliced onions and top with other half. Bake 30 to 45 minutes. Gulden's adds a wonderful goodness to this inexpensive dish. It enriches the natural flavor of all meats—adds a tasty touch to sauces and gravies.

LIFE INSURANCE DAY OBSERVED

Mr. Koehler

Many employes of insurance companies are today joining in a nation-wide observance of "Life Insurance Day." Staffs of underwriters in a number of the leading agencies held "breakfast conferences" downtown, and many prominent agents and managers spoke at meetings last night.

R. S. Kohler is chairman of the committee arranging for the day, assisted by Robert I. Feldman, W. L. Phipps, J. M. Ryall, John Hoxley and Eric J. Johnson.

Oppose Cemetery For Wilkins Twp.

Objecting to a proposed cemetery in Wilkins Township, to be established by the William Penn Memorial Corporation and W. K. Virgin, of Wilkinsburg, alleged to be in violation of the township zoning ordinance, William A. Fierst, Mary F. Fierst, his wife, and Dr. Adolph L. Lewin asked an injunction in Common Pleas Court.

The cemetery is planned for a plot of 79 acres on the Greensburg turnpike, adjoining more than seven acres owned by complainants. Approval of the township Commissioners has not been obtained, the suit said. Judge Frank P. Patterson fixed a hearing for Monday.

Flap-Jack Jenny

Jenny's hot-cakes are a treat;
Jenny hums a song.
In a window on the street—
Jenny Hums a song.

Jenny's strength is her delight;
Strong of arm and broad of thigh,
She will work from dawn till night
For some stalwart guy.

She'll have children minus pain,
She'll be poor, but never sad
That her family numbers ten—
Jenny will be glad.

Jenny hopes to find a beau . . .
Jenny's type is little sought . . .
Jenny's mind will never know
One disturbing thought.

The Retort Dandy

When Gallagher & Shean were the Canfor and Jessel of their day, they had some contract trouble and their manager took them to court about it.

The producer's counsel summoned Will Rogers to testify, hoping that he could get the famous comedian to admit that Gallagher & Shean were "extraordinary and unique."

"Please tell the jury, Mr. Rogers," coord the manager's lawyer, "just how you would classify Gallagher & Shean's act."

"Wal," drawled Rogers, who didn't want to hurt anybody's feelings, "mine's much worse."

Nifty

Jack Osterman's suggestion to the Republican party for a theme song:

"I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Raskob, You!"

Of All Remarks!

Mr. Wilkerson, one of Hollywood's better scoopee-makers, was unusually merry.

"What's the idea?" someone asked him.

"Gee," he ejaculated, "look at this front page—two brand new Hollywood marriages in one week! That means I'll have two swell divorces in a year!"

Ouch!

Verdict of a jury in the West:

"Not guilty—if he'll leave the State!"

The Retort Perfect

It happened they say, in a speakeasy the other night. An incoming drunk had left the door ajar. The bartender screamed at him:

"Hey! Close that door—don't you know it's cold out there?"

The stew Leon Errol'd back to shut the door, and then niftied:

"Well, d'you think it's any warmer out there now?"

A Form of Criticism

Leave it to Dayton Stoddart to describe anything or anybody in the stifling manner. He was groaning about a certain big head who only played one-night stands.

"He's so hammy," grumbled Dayton "that he gets stage-struck every time he sees a Main Street with trolley tracks!"

Merciless Truth

And M. Graham is going hunting, he says, to get away from this chisel-ization for a while.

Imagine

One of the better known bankers told this true tale the other sundown. How a millionaire, aged 70, retired three years ago after taking for himself 1,000,000 smackers to assure himself of comfort in his remaining years and giving his business away to his workers.

One day last week he called at a bank where he deposited a lot of coin in his better days.

"I never thought it would happen to me," he began, "I was so liberal. I couldn't pass a scrubwoman or servant in my home without handing any of them something. I never gave them less than a 10 spot. Now I wish I had a few of them back."

His fortune had decayed when the market toppled and he is without the things to which he was accustomed. He doesn't regret his gifts, but he is alone in the world, with no one to support him. And he on! needs $40 or $50 a week to live on.

So the bank, which once got a lot of his business, is supporting him.

Heheheh

Charles Leonard Fletcher, one of the better golf commentators, forwards this repartee overheard on the links:

Dub: "What's par for this course?"

Expert: "Why?"

At Last

The long time controversy and argument about the word "whoopee" is now definitely closed with this scoop!

No longer need Dr. Vizetelly, the editor of the best dictionary, and any others, bother themselves arguing over its origin.

For, Al Schwartz, simplifies matters by pointing out that "whoopee" comes from drinking!

Edward Labowitz today became chief clerk in the County Delinquent Tax Office. He was the principal aide of William Zeifel, Commissioner's chief clerk, for many years, and has been office manager of the Republican headquarters in numerous campaigns.

Labowitz succeeds Harry Bunting, now charged with embezzlement of approximately $18,000 of delinquent tax funds.

CITY QUITS GAS TO USE COAL

Savings estimated at $16,000 yearly to the city with substitution of coal for gas at five municipal institutions during 1932 were effected yesterday when Council accepting the recommendation of Budget Controller Robert J. Alderdice, ordered the change.

The hearing was held pending award of the 1932 fuel contract for the Leech Farm Tuberculosis Sanitarium, Highland Park Zoo, North Side Conservatory, Schenley Conservatory and Municipal Hospital.

Rates paid by the city to the Equitable Gas Company are: First 50,000 feet, 60 cents; second 50,000, 55 cents; next 100,000, 50 cents, and all gas above 200,000 feet, 45 cents.

The Peoples Gas Company rates to the city, according to Public Works Department Engineer Ross M. Reigel, are approximately 45 cents per thousand feet.

Estimated cash outlay for changes in furnaces and installation of stokers, according to Alderdice, would be $31,162.

Advises Parents Not to Curb Children

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A "hands off" policy for parents in their attitude toward their children in their early formative years is advocated by Dr. George B. Lake, editor of Clinical Medicine and Surgery.

Such a policy, he said yesterday in an address, would serve as a preventive of unstable emotional life in maturity.

Dr. Lake warned against curtailing the play of children, adding that every waking hour should be filled with constructive play that the child himself chooses "because he knows better than the adult what is good for him."

CHARGE ATTACK TO POLICEMAN

After John Thornton, 61, of 100 Logan street, testified that he had been beaten and kicked by Patrolman Stanley Fajerski, of Center Avenue Police Station, Justice of the Peace Martin K. Weitzel last night held Fajerski for court on a charge of aggravated assault and battery.

Thornton filed information against the policeman on order of Judge James H. Gray, in Criminal Court, after Thornton had pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. Fajerski posted $1,000 bond.

London to End Ban Against Skyscrapers

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—London at last will be allowed to grow up!

For years the city has sprawled over a vast area, but the height of its buildings has been under rigid supervision. Skyscrapers were taboo, and eight-story buildings the absolute limit.

Now, it is understood, the London County Council committee has decided that the maximum height of buildings can be 120 feet and, in some instances, 150 feet. The structures, however, must be "staggered" and not of the same rectangular dimensions throughout.

AID FOR STATE IN ALLEN TRIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—When Edwin H. B. Allen goes on trial for slaying Francis A. Donaldson, III, there will be a lawyer representing the Donaldsons sitting with prosecution attorneys.

Francis A. Donaldson, Jr., father of the slain youth, refused to name the lawyer although at Norristown where Allen will be tried, it was said he would be Howard P. Hannum, of Chester.

The latter, cousin of Donaldson, has been retained to represent Albert G. H. Lucas, who was with Donaldson when he was slain in the Allen apartment after a quarrel over Rose E. W. Allen, sister of the accused.

Stimson Being Taken for a Long Boat Ride

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

While the Hindus are getting slugged around by passive resistance and the Japanese are playing the Culbertson forcing system against the Chinese, we still are sending delegates to Switzerland.

How does the President select a delegate to a European grunt opera?

In order to make it absolutely impartial, does he swivel around in his revolving chair until he's dizzy and then pick a name out of a hat?

No. He gets a list of famous statesmen and thinks:

"Let's see. Who will we miss the least?"

In this case it's Secretary Stimson, who has written thousands of notes to Japan and is thinking up a humdinger for St. Valentine's Day.

With most of the international suburbs engaged in battle, it seems that another peace conference is looking the wrong way, like a frog standing on its hind legs.

Mr. Stimson will renew old acquaintances with Ramsay Grandi and Laval.

They were over here last year. This year it's our turn for the boat ride.

Breaks Up a Cold In a Jiffy
Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

Take two tablets now.

Better almost before you know it.

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy; not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go, the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

The service was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Alexander Mann, bishop of Pittsburgh; the Very Rev. Nathaniel Moor, dean of Trinity, and Dr. Van Etten.

Mr. Childers died at the age of 86 at Worchester, England, December 2. While in Pittsburgh he was active in church work and community life.

RELIEF PUSHED IN MT. LEBANON

In an effort to achieve more effective identification of needy families and individuals of Mt. Lebanon, members of the Mt. Lebanon Relief Association will be assigned to definite sections of the township, it was announced today.

It was pointed out that many persons of the community hesitate to make their wants known, thus limiting the effectiveness of relief work.

Mrs. Ralph C. Burt was elected secretary and treasurer of the Family Relief Committee at a meeting at which Walter H. Babbitt, president of the relief association, presided. The association's headquarters is in the Municipal Building.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Neuritis If Neglected Too Long Takes Years to Cure

Neuritis is an inflammation of what the doctors call the "peripheral nerves." In simple language these are nerves that supply the body, arms and legs. An attack of neuritis may be followed by some disturbance in the power of motion of the part involved, or the sense of feeling may be affected. Sometimes the health and vigor of the parts supplied by the affected nerves are impaired.

Dr. Copeland

Many cases of neutritis can be traced to injury. That is why it is frequently met in fractures of the bones or in dislocations. Sometimes inflammation of nearby structures may spread to a nerve. In nerves near the surface, as those of the face, exposure to severe cold may be the exciting cause. Interference with the blood supply of a limb may produce a typical attack of neuritis.

The symptoms of the disease depend upon the kind of nerve involved. If the nerve is one that controls motion—a motor nerve only—there may be little pain, but there will be marked inability to move the limb. This lack of power varies all the way from a slight limitation of motion to complete paralysis.

When a sensory nerve—one having to do with feeling—is inflamed, the pain is severe. It is made worse by movements, and is accompanied by tenderness along the course of the nerve. There may be numbness in the affected region.

The course of the neuritis depends on the success of the treatment and the ability to find and remove the cause. Even under favorable circumstances recovery is apt to be slow. It may take months or even years for complete restoration to health. In some cases where treatment has been delayed, the muscles have become so weakened that perfect recovery is impossible.

Absolute rest is essential. No medical treatment is worth while unless the limb is kept without movement.

Neuralgia is indicated by pain in a nerve. It occurs in paroxysms. There is no inflammation of the nerve, as in neuritis, but there is irritation of the nerve in some part of its course.

The nerves of the face are most frequently affected, but the nerves of the chest and back may also suffer. This is the case in the disease called "shingles," which is always associated with an obstinate neuralgia.

Neuralgia occurs most frequently in persons of the nervous type and in those who are anemic and overworked. The exciting irritation in facial neuralgia may be traced sometimes to defective or impacted teeth, or to infection of the nasal sinuses.

During the attack the area involved may be slightly flushed. The skin is swollen. In facial neuralgia an excessive flow of tears is noted, and sometimes also an increased secretion of saliva. Severe attacks may be accompanied by forcible chewing movements of the jaws.

In cases of neuralgia the discovery of the cause is of the utmost importance. This must be removed because, so long as a nerve is irritated, no amount of medicine will permanently relieve the trouble. Neglected and untreated cases are apt to grow worse.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Is Divorce Ever a Cure for A Bad Situation?

This column has never advised divorce—and never will.

Separation? Yes, in many a brutal case. Separation from a worthless woman or man, so that the children may not be contaminated. But divorce—that's something else. Divorce is too intimate a problem for any outsider to touch. At least, so it seems to me.

But here's Mary, who says she needs advice—and many another broken-hearted wife with her. Perhaps you want to urge her, or warn her. Then here's your chance.

Do you believe in divorce? Or do you believe that a woman should hang on to her husband, even though he doesn't love her and wants to be free, for the sake of her children?

PROBLEM OF CHILDREN

Will it be better for those children to live in a home that, so far as the world can see, is unbroken, yet that is divided by resentment, darkened by sullen silences and hot quarrels?

Or will it be better for them to be free of such a father and such an atmosphere?

That is the problem that is confronting Mary today. Listen to her story, and then give us your opinion.

"Dear Sally:

"I wonder if you can help me. I don't know which way to turn. It wouldn't take me long to decide if it weren't for the children; but I have them to think of, and I want to do what is best for them. Briefly, here it is.

"My husband, it has come to my knowledge, is just now in the midst of another affair of the heart. There have been others, but I have shut my eyes to them because I didn't want to deprive my youngsters of their father. There has been so much said about broken homes being responsible for so many youngsters going wrong—growing up with wrong ideals, and getting to be criminals—that I felt I must keep the family together.

HE WANTS DIVORCE

"But this affair is serious. My husband's secretary is the girl. I don't blame her for the affair, for I know he ran after her. He is like that, though I didn't discover it for a good many years after I married him. He says that she is deeply in love with him and he with her, and I guess it is true, because he wants me to divorce him so he can marry her.

"All the responsibility of deciding is on me. He has nothing on me. I have stood his ill temper and his neglect, and have tried my best to be a good wife to him. He can't divorce me. He has no grounds. So it is all up to me to decide what I want to do.

"So far, I have told him I wouldn't do it—that we must stick it out for the children's sake—but I am beginning to wonder how much real good I am doing the children by taking that stand. Naturally, things are none too pleasant around our home. My husband is at home as little as he can manage, and although he is pleasant enough to the children, takes them out, buys them things and treats them fine, he is either sullen with me or starts a quarrel.

OBSERVED BY KIDDIES

"The children—there are two of them, a girl and a boy, 8 and 10 years old—can't help but notice all this, I am sure. The question in my mind is, won't they get a wrong and ugly idea of marriage from seeing how things are between their father and me? And won't that do them just as much if not more harm, than living apart from him?

"I know that the majority of marriages haven't the problems or the animosity that have grown up in mine, but they can't know that. To them, their own environment is the world. I don't want them to get the idea that such troubles as I have are to be expected. I want them to have a chance for happiness.

"Shall I let this man go, as he asks? Or shall I hang on for their sakes? Which will be best for them? MARY."

There's the question. What's your answer? Suppose it were a question in your life? What would you do with it?

Maybe you were a child of divorce, or a child brought up in a quarrelling home.

If you were, tell us about it, and what it did to you.

Why do women buy a thing one day and return it the next for a refund or a credit slip?

The one fair reason for all concerned is that a flaw was discovered in the goods which was overlooked by the merchant and customer at the time of purchase.

Another reason is that expert salesmen often force a purchase upon a timid customer, hoping this same timidity will prevent return or exchange. This is never fair to the customer.

Too hasty shopping is almost as bad as a forced sale, but the customer is at fault.

Some women buy things they don't intend to keep just to impress a friend who is along.

Others are too easily influenced against their own taste.

Avoid exchanges!

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Awakens Thoroughly Refreshed

I sat up in bed with a gasp of terror as Junior said that the doctor was in the nursery.

So the baby was worse. Then I sank again with a reassuring remembrance of Lillian's given word that she would call me if there were any change for the worse in my baby's condition. Her word was worth far more than any bond ever issued and, remembering also that the physician had said that he would look in before noon, I ceased to worry.

"What did Aunt Lillian tell you to do when you heard my bell?" I asked.

"She said I was to run in here and see what you wanted then beat it back to her and tell her you were awake, and then go down to Katie, and have her bring up some breakfast for you. I 'spect I'd better be beatin' it."

"All right, darling," I said, giving him another hug, and then releasing him. "Tell Aunt Lillian I am feeling ever so much better."

He had been gone scarcely a minute when Lillian came in, breezily, I gave her no opportunity to speak but put a breathless question:

"What did the doctor say about Faith?"

How did you know he was here?" she parried.

"Junior told me. Why shouldn't I be told? Is Faith worse?"

"No, no, no, three in a row, to your last question." Lillian said vehemently. "On the other hand, she is distinctly better, temperature all gone. Her only complaint is that she is starving to death, and the doctor has just told Katherine that she may put her back on almost her usual rations."

I drew a sobbing breath of relief as Lillian went on.

"Your first and third questions being disposed of," she said with a grin, "I'll take up the second one. The reason why Junior shouldn't have told you that the doctor was here should be apparent to anyone with a grade-brain higher than an absolute moron," she grinned widely at me again. "You promptly forgot that he said he'd call again around noon and you immediately zoomed into the upper ether, but now suppose you get back to earth again."

She looked down at me critically.

"I am no nurse, but I don't have to be one to realize that you've made your usual snappy comeback, physically and mentally. Give me your breakfast order and get dressed while Katie prepares it. I won't insult you by offering to help you dress this morning."

She snapped up a pad and paper and pencil from the table and stood at attention as a waiter might.

"Oui, Madame?" she said encouragingly.

With my spirits lifted to the seventh Heaven by news of my baby's convalescence, I laughed at her nonsense and recited my breakfast menu glibly: "Iced grape fruit juice, soft boiled eggs, toast and coffee."

I wasted no time over my shower and dressing. When I had finished, my first impulse was to go directly to the nursery then, with a hazy sense of atonement for my hysteria of the early morning, I cleared off the table for my breakfast tray and sat down before it.

The baby might be asleep, I reasoned, and in any case Katherine must be exceedingly tired after her long vigil. Unless I was prepared to relieve her of the care of the child so that she could get some sleep, my presence in the sick room would only be an added nervous burden to her. Lillian had assured me of my baby's convalescence. To go to the nursery now could only be for the purpose of gratifying my own longing to see my child and could do her no possibly good. I would do penance for my misbehavior, I told myself grimly, by keeping away from the nursery until I was sure that my presence there would not disturb Katherine.

Katie's knock upon the door punctuated this lofty resolution. As she entered with my breakfast tray, I caught the spicy odor of clove pinks and saw that she had tucked a cluster of them into my serviette.

Katie set down the tray, unfolded my napkin, put the spicy pinks in a tiny silver vase, and placed my iced grape fruit juice before me.

"If you think dot mitout galloping as eef you makin' train," she said with the familiarity of her long service and personal care of me, "Me, I have time feex your eggs and get vater for dees vase. Don't touch dot covered deesh mit dot toast. Eet hot as—place you vont let me say before Junior."

"I won't touch it," I said, smiling at her, and sipping my fruit juice with obedient slowness.

"Dot's goot," she commented absently. "How you vant your eggs, in egg cup mit dere heads chopped off, or broken in glass?"

"In a glass this morning, Katie," I said.

"All right, I feex," she said, and the cheery phrase so familiar to me added to the sense of being lapped in luxious comfort which had been mine ever since I wakened. I made a leisurely breakfast—I could do nothing else under Katie's watchful eye. The door had barely closed behind her departure with my tray when it opened again as if by prearranged signal, to admit Lillian.

"Here's one baby," she said.

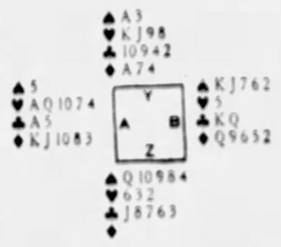
Contract Bridge :-:

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Can A-B Go Game Against Perfect Defense?



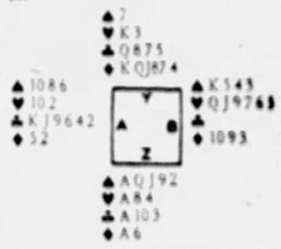
Not being strong enough to force partner, A opened with a semi-demand bid of 2-Hearts. Y-Z made no bids. B took out with 2-Spades. Upon that showing of strength by his partner, A forced with 4-Diamonds, which B raised to 5-Diamonds.

The opening lead was Y's fourth best club. A won with his ace, and led his only spade. The bidding caused Y to put up his A. Realizing that the hand was a straight cross-ruff, he laid down his top trump, then led another, which was won by A's 8. The declarer led his top heart, followed by a small one that was trumped by dummy. A heart was discarded upon B's top spade.

It was all over but the shouting. Z did that after game had been scored. Dummy's K of clubs was played. A trumped dummy's three remaining spades, while Y ruffed the declarer's two remaining hearts.

Then Z had his innings, quoting the following rule: "When your adversaries have bid different suits, and then have compromised upon a third suit, ordinarily the best method of defeating the contract is to lead trumps." "Partner, you should have made an opening lead of your A of diamonds, followed by a small one. When you were in with A of spades another trump lead would have prevented two ruffs; saved one trick, and put them down one." All of which was true.

The hand shown below offers many points of interest, both in bidding and play. Look it over before reading tomorrow's article.



What would you bid as Z? How should Y respond to Z's opening bid? What is the best final make? How many can be made at that make against a normal opening lead?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

It's the Man Who Should Pay!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to eat the lettuce served with salad?

2. Is it correct for a man to pay for the gas when he is in the girl's car? G.

1. Yes, by all means . . . it is too good not to eat it!

2. Yes, this would be a generous and gracious gesture for him to make.

Do Not Spoil a Plan

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited to a party which a girl friend of mine is having. She did not tell the others whom she invited that this is a birthday party. I know the others very slightly except one girl, and she knows the others quite well. Would it be proper for her to inform the rest of the invited guests that this is a birthday party? I would like to present the young girl giving the party with a gift. I thought it would be nice for each couple to "put up" for a gift, but I will do anything you say. L. C.

You shouldn't. I think, carry out this plan. Perhaps the girl wants to have a celebration of her birthday, and doesn't want to have the occasion marked with gifts. This is, believe it or not, often the case, for many people resent the fact that people, the minute they hear that there is a special reason for the party, "wonder" about whether or not they should give or bring gifts.

Eczema on Son's Face. Had to Tie Hands. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out on my son's face. It was in a patch about the size of a half dollar, and was very red. It itched and he used to scratch until it would bleed. I had to tie his hands to keep him from scratching, and he lost considerable sleep on account of it.

"I used several other remedies which failed to help him. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about two months he was completely healed, after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. W. C. Elliott, 1614 Bailey Ave., McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 10, 1931.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

Stretch $1 as far as $3 when fighting sore throat colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

OUT of every $3 you spend for ordinary mouth antiseptics you might as well save $2. It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth washes—by adding water it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath. Here's the great difference between old-fashioned mouth washes and Pepsodent Antiseptic. The old-fashioned mouth wash must be used full strength to be effective—but three people out of four add water to their mouth wash. So the new discovery—Pepsodent Antiseptic—was made powerful enough to be diluted and still be effective—yet it is completely safe when used full strength. It's costly enough to use a mouth wash that should be used full strength. But it's a lot more costly to fail to dilute that mouth wash and kill the germs. That's why we warn you to choose an antiseptic that kills germs when diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe. Safeguard health and save your money.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)
The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Chest Colds

Colds on the chest may mean serious congestion. This congestion in bronchial tubes and air passages must be relieved by bringing fresh blood to the congested parts. Rubbed in freely, the deeply penetrating qualities of BAUME BENGUE (pronounced Ben-Gay) stimulate outer-chest circulation, lessen deeper congestion and usually breaks the cold up over night.

Ben-Gay relieves the pains of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and neuritis quickly and safely without harmful drugs. Ben-Gay has been prescribed for over 30 years, for every pain of nerve and muscle. Ask for Ben-Gay and do not accept weaker substitutes.

BESS: Why I thought she had a maid—
ANN: Her hands certainly look as if she did
BESS: How can she keep them so smooth and white?
ANN: She told me her secret—Lux in the dishpan. She says it's a regular beauty treatment . . . and my dear, it costs less than 1¢ a day

—LUX for dishes—

TODAY, please take a moment to find out why you are sluggish or low in spirits.

It is not easy to be "up and doing" when that body of yours seems to rebel against work or play.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

That "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . to are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

S.S.S.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

THEY THINK A great deal of Kay Kronick at WTAM, Cleveland, where the WCAE protege is being groomed for network appearances. It was decided today to change her radio name to "Kay Donna," and her first appearance will be Friday night at 11 o'clock with a 25-piece concert orchestra directed by Walter Logan. . . . The feature will be identified as "Evening Stars," with Kay crooning pleasant lullabies. . . . Like the Arab who packed his tent and silently slipped away, George F. McClelland, vice president and general manager of the National Broadcasting Company, left Pittsburgh late last night without divulging the purpose of his two-day visit here. . . . Mr. McClelland conferred with local radio executives.

Gibbons Was Good

Seemed like old times to hear Floyd Gibbons' voice booming from the loudspeaker last night, direct from the Manchurian war front. . . . His talk and that of Gen. Honjo traveled approximately 11,000 miles. Some people wondered why they didn't hear the screaming of shells, the rat-a-tat-tat of machine guns and the general atmosphere of the front lines . . . it was "silent night" up front, and, even if there had been gunfire it never would have been recognized over the radio as such . . . it would have sounded like a lot of pff-fs and zizzes. . . . Congratulations to Hearst Radio Service for a marvelous stunt!

"Wings of Romance" on WOR (710 kilocycles) every Thursday night at 8:30 is purely a Pittsburgh production. . . . Phil Thorne, of this city, writes the script and John A. Willarde, a graduate of KDKA, is the reader. . . .

Fred Swearingen, the singing cop, has organized a band and you may hear it soon on a local station. . . .

Up to Turtle Creek High School last night to judge an announcer's contest with Marjory Stewart and Glenn Riggs, we came near being inundated by Riggs' admirers. . . . Riggs is a Turtle Creek alumnus. . . . A girl, Theresa Tropple, was selected the best announcer among 400 entrants . . . she was given a 10-week scholarship course in Marjory Stewart's "Microphone Playhouse." . . . Eugene Burkhart placed second and Joseph Bruce third . . . Ernie Scott and Dorothy Ryan Nesbitt entertained. . . .

Question a Day:

How did Ben Bernie acquire the nickname "Old Maestro" and what does it cost to bring a band like his to Pittsburgh?—Sara Shaffer, Fulton Building

Answer—Bernie started calling himself "The Old Maestro" while playing from the Nixon Cafe over WCAE about two years ago. For that week's engagement he received $2,160, but we judge that his present price would far exceed this.

Senator Davis on WCAE Tonight

Mark Shields, political editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will have Senator James J. Davis as his guest on WCAE at 6:30 tonight. Mr. Shields will ask Senator Davis timely questions on the city, state and national political situation.

Club Urges Speedy Auto Inspection

Declaring that only a small percentage of Allegheny County's 250,000 motor vehicles have been inspected and approved at official stations in the compulsory automobile inspection period, which ends March 31, C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, today urged motorists to have their automobiles inspected as soon as possible.

More than 80 per cent of all vehicles examined to date, Roth said, have needed repairs or adjustments to brakes, lights, windshield wipers, steering apparatus, horns and position of license plates.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 25c and 50c.

COMPOSERS BAN SONG RACKET

Pittsburgh and other cities are being rid of song sheet racketeers through nation-wide efforts of the American Society of Composers Authors and Publishers according to Edward A. Montgomery its local attorney. In less than a year prosecutions for infringement of copyrights have practically cleared Pittsburgh's streets of the song and parody sheet venders he said.

The racket appeared in New York City about two and a half years ago and spread to all the principal cities. Many peddlers and distributors used pirated song sheets as a cloak for handling narcotics and picking pockets it was revealed.

Aviator to Salvage Abandoned Fur Ship

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 21 (AP)—W. B. Graham hopes to exercise salvage rights on the fur ship Baychimo, missing in the Arctic Ocean, whether its cargo is worth $30,000, as its owners say, or $1,000,000, according to members of the crew.

Graham is an Alaskan commercial pilot. He plans to leave for Point Barrow in three or four days in a specially equipped plane and search the ice-pack to the south for the Baychimo, a Hudson Bay Company trader, which was caught in a floe and abandoned last fall.

EX-BANKERS GO TO PRISON

Seven government prisoners, including three former employes of national banks, were en route today from Pittsburgh to the Federal Reformatory camp at Petersburg, Va., and another prisoner to the camp at Lee Hall, Va., to serve sentences imposed in Federal District Court. United States Marshal J. C. McGregor and Deputy Marshall D. A. Goldman had charge of the party.

The three former bankers were sentenced for misapplication and embezzlement of funds of their respective banks are Lyde M. Irwin, cashier of Lincoln National Bank of Avella, Washington County, to serve three years; Joseph G. Yoney, teller of the First National Bank and Trust Company, Monessen, two years, and Joseph E. Rondick, teller of the Farmers and Miners National Bank, Bentleyville, 18 months.

In the Petersburg group were two counterfeiters, Joseph Starcic and Mark Vukcevich, each to serve one year and one day. Another counterfeiter, John Castagnolo, is to serve two years in the Lee Hall reformatory. The other two prisoners are Harry Leslie Morgan, to serve one year and one day for impersonating a government officer, and John Durkin, one year and one day, for violating the prohibition law.

MAYVIEW FIRES WORKING WIVES

Dismissal of married women employes at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview has been started by Superintendent James S. Hammers, in accordance with City Council's orders, it was learned today.

The payroll slashes will be continued until all married women have been ousted, it was said.

In some instances husbands—most of whom were attendants—were let go, while their wives were retained. Council decreed at its budget sessions in cases where husbands and wives are employed in city jobs, either the husband or wife would be forced to resign.

The More B. T. U.'s—The Better We Like It

Every person who enters our First Floor, Arcade Floor or Downstairs Store brings into the building a heat equivalent of 400 B. T. U.'s (British Thermal Units). So accurately do we take this fact into our calculations that no matter how many people enter the store at one time, they can't overheat us. We make our own weather! At peak hours, when crowds are heaviest, a battery of ice machines literally annihilates the surplus B. T. U.'s, and keeps both temperature and humidity at exactly the degree ideal for the comfort of patron and employe. Incidentally, we wash and filter every cubic foot of air you breathe on these floors. Come right on in—the more customers and millions of B. T. U.'s, the better we like it!

No Friction on Board Over Legal Adviser

By MARK SHIELDS

Delay of the County Commissioners in choosing a solicitor has caused some comment, and observations have been heard that there are serious differences among the three members of the county board. That is not true, even though they have failed to agree on a legal adviser.

Mark Shields

One reason for the delay is the audit now being made of departments directly under control of the Commissioners. Sufficient has been disclosed in a hasty scanning of records to warrant the prediction that the eventual report of the auditors will transcend in its sensationalism the report of auditors who examined the city books at the instance of Controller John P. Kerr.

Peculiar payroll practices are being examined—with at least one payroll reported to have disappeared, it is understood, on which checks were drawn but on which there was no check, if you get the idea.

Out of these revelations may come the need for suits, some probably civil, and they must be pressed by an attorney of ability who will be stopped by no political considerations. It is that type of solicitor the Commissioners desire, and while such a man can be found who suits one member of the board it is difficult to fix on an attorney of this caliber who meets the approval of all three.

Humes' Commissioner Career May Be Ended

Maj. E. Lowry Humes, member of the Registration Commission, who was not confirmed by the Senate, and who has not yet been reappointed by Gov. Pinchot, may have finished his career with this body. That, I understand, will not be distasteful to Maj. Humes.

He apparently is approved by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, but there are influences close to the Governor's office who do not approve him. Moreover, it is understood he is not favorably regarded by Senator James J. Coyne, who seriously objected to some of the decisions of the Registration Commission prior to the September primary election.

If McGovern is seriously interested in having Humes on the commission, which is not clear, the issue may prove a real test between McGovern and Coyne with the Governor. In this event the influence of P. S. Stahlnecker, secretary to the Governor, might be potent, and it would be thrown against Humes.

Two Ways Roosevelt Sentiment May Be Upset

Through entering Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Pennsylvania primary Democratic leaders who favor the New York executive hope to gain for him the convention votes of at least the delegates-at-large. They talk in much bigger figures than that, but the primary result would not be binding on district delegates. It would be binding on the delegates-at-large only because those slated at the committee meeting in Harrisburg last week agreed to abide by the primary decision.

There are two ways that Roosevelt sentiment might be upset. One would be for some other national Democrat to enter the primary and get more votes than Roosevelt. So far no other Democrat has signified such an intention, and petitions to place Roosevelt on the ballot will be taken out on January 27, the first legal day for securing signatures.

Another way to upset this Roosevelt plan would be for some Democrat not on the slate to be elected delegate-at-large.

Can that happen? It certainly can. Capt. John Hemphill, last Democratic candidate for Governor, was not among the preferred champions of the minority party. He is keen for Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland. He may run for delegate either in his district or at-large in order to boost for the Free Stater at the convention.

* * *

Some Think Hemphill Able to Break Slate

Should Hemphill run for delegate-at-large there are Democrats who believe he would break the slate. He attained prominence last year, and from obscurity in his party has come to be better known throughout the state than the majority of those slated by the party leaders.

This episode, excluding Hemphill from the delegate-at-large honors, again illustrates how accidental was his candidacy in 1930, how he was accepted as a forlorn-hope alternative when others stepped aside. The campaign he put on did not win the praise of all Democrats among those who fought most valiantly in his cause, and they charge his efforts to cater to the "Liberals," or camouflaged Republicans, lost rather than gained votes.

James B. Blackburn, Pittsburgh Democrat, is to head the Democratic "victory campaign" in Western Pennsylvania. The "victory campaign" is for funds rather than votes, though one cannot be secured without the other, and is being conducted throughout the country under the leadership of John W. Davis.

Mark Shields, in his weekly talk on "Politics" tonight over Station WCAE at 6:30, will interview Senator James J. Davis before the microphone.

Slide Kills Boy Digging Coal To Aid Mother

BEN BROMLEY

Brother, Police and Neighbors Fail in Fight for Life

Ben Bromley, 15, of 2200 Elsie street, who with his brother, Herman, 13, went to dig coal from a hillside near St. Patrick street, so his mother "could have money to buy other things," was dead today despite Herman's efforts to rescue him from a landslide.

Herman, 13

The boys went to the hillside late yesterday, and while Ben dug the coal Herman packed it into baskets. After a short time Herman said Ben complained that his legs were stuck in the earth. Herman made frantic efforts to free him.

Paul Dutine, 13, of 2219 Spring street, ran to Herman's aid, and together they began to dig Ben out. While they worked the earth again began to slide, and Ben was covered.

Frank Thomas, 30, of 1720 St. Patrick street, and Stanley Unitowski, 25, of 1815 St. Patrick street, reached the scene soon after Ben was buried. While they sought to extricate him, Patrolmen Edward Kuss and John Shaughennessy arrived in the South Side radio car with an inhalator. For an hour police worked with the inhalator after the boy's head was uncovered, while neighbors sought to remove earth from the rest of his body.

Finally extricated, he was taken to South Side Hospital, where he died.

Woman, 2 Men Ask Hospital for Drugs

Two men and a woman, police said, went to Pittsburgh Hospital today and asked for morphine, telling doctors there they were addicts, but on account of the depression were unable to buy the drug.

Hospital authorities called police, who docketed them as Joseph Hufnagel, 27, and his wife, Marie, 22, of Orwell street, and David Dapice, 34, of Joseph street.

FAIR RATE BODY ORGANIZES FOR FIGHT

Ministers on Tour Of Mine Towns See Starvation Menace

Unless immediate relief is given 2,500 persons in the mining sections of Allegheny, Westmoreland, Fayette and Washington counties soon will face starvation, nine Pittsburgh ministers discovered yesterday on a tour with a committee of the Socialist Miners' Relief Fund. Of the 32 stations maintained by the Socialist Relief, the clergymen visited the community kitchens in Mollenauer, Castle Shannon, Coverdale, Naomi, Fair Hope, Arnold City and Gillespie.

The relief fund was instituted at the outset of the Western Pennsylvania miners' strike last June. Collapse of the strike found the committee with a surplus fund of $9,000. After taking care of the 17 community kitchens and 15 relief stations, the fund's balance has been reduced to less than $100, Mrs. Sarah Limbach, its secretary, told the visitors.

Unemployed miners told the ministers many of their number have not worked for more than a year. The only assistance they have received has been through the Miner's Relief Fund of the Socialist Party of Pittsburgh, they said. Mothers in Fayette County said they received only two pints of milk a day for the whole family. The majority families have four of more children.

Members of the relief group said reading rooms are being established at the community kitchens to create a social atmosphere lacking in the communities for years, and bi-monthly motion picture programs are arranged, with lectures.

Each kitchen feeds from 35 to 200 persons each meal. It costs $20 per week per station to feed 70 people two meals a day. Children are given three meals daily.

Since the first of the year more than 800 applicants have sought relief and it has been impossible to care for all, the committee said.

At the end of the tour, the Rev. Dr. Albert Day, of Christ Methodist Church, Center avenue, declared:

"Here is a real human tragedy epitomized in 1,500 children who, through no fault of their own, are threatened with starvation unless relief is provided. So far as I am able to discover, the relief given by the Socialist party is efficiently administered. I do not know anybody else who can feed 70 people on $20 a week. I believe they should have public support."

Other ministers on the tour were the Rev. J. E. Fosnight, Park Baptist Church, McKeesport; the Rev. Oliver H. Sisson, Wilkinsburg Baptist Church; the Rev. Edward Bleakney, Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Dormont; the Rev. H. P. Stoddard, Bellevue Baptist Church; the Rev. W. W. Hibbs, First Baptist Church, Tarentum; the Rev. Charles Dayton, Sandusky Street Baptist Church, North Side; the Rev. David W. Witte, director of Christian Education of Pittsburgh Baptist Association, and E. R. Tingley, director Rankin Christian Center.

The relief committee consisted of Mrs. Limbach, Sidney Teller, director of Irene Kaufman Settlement and a member of the national committee of the Socialist party; Robert Lieberman and David Rinne, field workers.

"THIS SHOE, MAM'SELLE, COSTS JUST EXACTLY 3c A PAIR!"

Inner Tubes Also Used, U.S. Agent Here Reveals

When the usefulness of automobile tires on Pittsburgh streets is ended there is a chance they will give further mileage in the form of shoes on the feet of laborers in China, Japan, Greece or some other foreign country.

Several samples of footwear have been received here by the local office of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Wilson K. Ray, district representative, declared a shoe made entirely from part of a discarded tire is used in China and Greece. In China the shoes cost coolies about 3 cents a pair.

The laborer gets a better grade upper with old tires for soles for a few more cents. Rubber soles are made for a short cloth sock in Japan. Inner tubes serve for overshoes.

COURT ACTION HINTS SPLIT IN SITE FIGHT

Long Delay Seen in Final Decision in Plea Against Purchase of Oakland Plot

The Supreme Court today ordered reargruments on the appeal of Ada L. Sheets and the Syria Improvement Association to prevent location of the Town Hall on the Nicola site in Oakland.

Arguments on the appeal from the decision of Judge James R. Macfarlane, upholding the old Board of County Commissioners in selection of a site, were made in Philadelphia several days ago.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton represented the appellants and William Watson Smith represented F. F. Nicola. The new Commissioners were represented by Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith and M. B. Lesher represented the old board, though the bulk of the argument was made for the opposing sides by Eaton and William Watson Smith.

The suit originated in a protest of Oakland groups against location of the hall in that section. The new Commissioners are on record as opposing the Oakland site, but cannot undo the work of the old board unless the appeal from Judge Macfarlane's decision eventually should be upheld.

Request of the court for further argument indicated a divided opinion, and means that final decision will not be given for some time. It is possible the case will not come up again until Gov. Pinchot has filled the vacancy caused in the Supreme Court through the death of Justice Walling.

OUSTED CLERKS DEMAND PAY

Mayor Charles H. Kline, City Controller James P. Kerr and Treasurer Richard W. Thompson today were preparing to answer a rule on a writ of mandamus filed in Common Pleas Court by Bert M. Doty and Miss Mathilda M. Ganley to show cause why both should not be reinstated as clerks in the City Department of Supplies.

Both were discharged by W. R. Dunlap, director of the Supplies Department, January 1, but were ordered reinstated by the Civil Service Commission.

Counsel for both clerks, appearing before Judge Frank Patterson, asked that city officials show cause why they should not be paid salaries since January 1. They have been reporting for duty daily at the City-County Building. The rule is returnable Tuesday.

Mr. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, pictured at breakfast today as he outlined the plan for the legion's "man to a block" campaign to relieve unemployment.

STEVENS HERE, GIVES JOB PLAN

The "man to a block" campaign in which a house to house canvass is made by Legionaires seeking jobs for their unemployed brother members, will be put into force in Allegheny County within the next month or two, H. L. Stevens, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, on his first visit here, today announced. He said:

"We believe property owners must be made to realize that a national emergency exists and they must create small jobs even though it imposes a hardship upon them. In Rochester, N. Y., American Legion posts put into effect a similar campaign and within two weeks had pledges for work amounting to several million dollars."

A national employment commission has been organized to plan for work for the jobless legionaires.

Commander Stevens is in Pittsburgh to speak at the annual banquet of the Allegheny County Committee in McCreery's tonight.

Sportsman to Air Game Board Dispute

Facts of the recent Game Commission controversy, obtained in interviews with Gov. Pinchot and resigned members of the commission, will be given by Colin M. Reed, of Washington, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, at a special meeting of the Allegheny County Sportsmen's League in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium tomorrow night.

More than 1,000 sportsmen from Western Pennsylvania are expected to attend.

GROUP TO USE BALLOT AS WEAPON

Hagmaier Plea for Parley With Power Men Scorned At Wilkinsburg Meeting

First steps in the organization of a state-wide association for a concerted drive against excessive public utility rates today had been taken through the formation here of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association.

Representatives of 32 Western Pennsylvania municipalities indorsed a definite program to gain their demands at a meeting last night in Wilkinsburg High School. The Western Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association widened its scope to that of a state organization. Members of two similar groups have been merged with it. They are the Pennsylvania Fair Rate League of Columbia County and the Jefferson County Association of Boroughs.

MILITANT ATTITUDE

A militant attitude marked the meeting as plans were announced to attack existing legislation. That all members of the Legislature will be watched for their action on bills proposing reduced rates will be a weapon leading to the attack on all opponents through the ballot. A political committee with members in each senatorial and representative district and headed by a state chairman will be one means of vigilance.

Urging that conferences be arranged with utility executives, State Representative Louis W. Hagmaier drew opposition from the organization's president, A. B. Davidson, of Tarentum, and Burgess J. H. Rockenstein, Freedom. Hagmaier further said the Woodruff proposal for a uniform state rate could not be adopted because of state laws and that rate cases would be too costly. Davidson declared the time for conferences had ended.

OFFICERS NAMED

With the Governor and cabinet members as ex-officio members, the organization's officers include: Vice presidents, C. J. Dickson, of Burwick, and J. Steele Butler, Brookville; treasurer, Councilman John Rhoads, Wilkinsburg; secretary, William A. Fisher, Brackenridge; executive committee, Burgess S. S. Baldridge, Apollo; Harry Wohlwend, Greentree; C. V. Tiers, Oakmont; Dr. C. M. McLaughlin, Freeport, and Mr. Rhoads.

Appointment of additional executive committee members and all other committees will be made within 10 days, Davidson announced.

Speakers last night included Mayor Joseph A. Heineman, Butler, Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade; Attorney W. G. Negley; Burgess Baldridge and Mr. Tiers.

Mother-in-Law Question To Boom Home Building

The ancient rift between young couples and mothers-in-law is likely to prove a helpful factor to the building industry, according to William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, president of the United States Building and Loan League.

Best, in St. Louis today to address the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said before leaving that he planned to tell the realtors it is far more important to the nation to make good use of the houses already built than to construct much more housing for which there is no market.

The doubling-up movement has been carried too far, Best believes. He believes young folks who have moved in with parents during a financial emergency will seek homes of their own at the earliest possible moment.

He is of opinion, however, that the building industry must lean heavily on remodeling for some time.

"I've never seen so alluring a figure"

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster *

WHAT grace! What subtle allure. Then, as she drew nearer, I saw a complexion that erased the whole lovely picture. How often that happens! Yet a few words of expert advice could make such a difference!

* * *

You have no right to let your skin—ever—become "tragic". Not when the right care is so easy. That's what specialists have told me—and I'm going to tell you their treatment for keeping skin firm, smooth, youthful.

Apply a luxurious lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water to face and throat. Work this into the pores. Your hands are best for this part of the treatment. Rinse it away with warm water (never use hot); finish with a cold rinse.

Ideal foundation cleansing

Then, your make up in the morning. At night, oil or tissue cream, if your skin is dry. More than 20,000 experts consider this the ideal foundation cleansing. You'll find ample reason in the paragraph at right headed: "Beauty In A Test Tube". Read every word of it!

Palmolive is so inexpensive that this bath treatment I'm going to outline is within every woman's budget. Melt a bar of Palmolive. Pour the soothing liquid into your tub. Step in. Then massage every thirsty pore with the rich lather from another cake of Palmolive. Weariness becomes a thing of the past. You want to jump into your loveliest frock, go places and do things. As for your skin—it's deliciously smooth and soft.

Believe me, nothing in your facial beauty program is so important as the twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap. Nothing gives you a more satisfying, refreshing beauty treatment. Try it ten days—for a firm, fine youthful skin!

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

Olive oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful.

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? There is the exact amount—in that test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced the great benefits of Palmolive Soap to the complexion. Palmolive is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other Palmolive ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather than possible with olive oil alone.

More than 20,000 of the world's leading beauty experts have for years urged women to use Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

SOCIETIES WILL HIT SOURCE OF TUBERCULOSIS

Members Stress Finding Of 'Other Case;' Dr. Marcy Named State President

Continuing their campaign against tuberculosis, member organizations of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society today had a new aim, that of finding the cause or source of the disease, when treating victims. The importance of finding the source or the "other case" was emphasized in resolutions adopted at a business meeting of the society.

The all-day conference held by the society yesterday came to a close with a short meeting at the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh headquarters, Bedford avenue, where Dr. C. Howard Marcy, medical director of the league, was host.

Dr. Marcy was elected president of the state society yesterday succeeding Dr. H. R. M. Landis of Philadelphia. Dr. Landis was named vice president, as was R. S. Knapp, of Easton. Dr. Ward Brinton, Milton D. Reinhold and Thomas Raeburn White, of Philadelphia, were named secretary, treasurer and solicitor respectively.

Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of the State Department of Health, made a short address at the luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. He told of his visits to highway camps and milk stations throughout the state, and said there has been a marked increase in malnutrition among children. He said an important duty of the society was to prevent children from becoming undernourished. By caring for underfed children the organization would strike at the source of tuberculosis, he declared.

The final address of the conference was delivered by Dr. F. Maurice McPhedran, of the Henry Phipps Institute for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, Philadelphia. He spoke at the League Hospital.

Ralph was burned slightly while attempting to save some merchandise from the store, firemen said.

The frame structure was enveloped by flames when volunteer firemen from Broughton and Bethel Township arrived. The flames also razed a small building nearby and the shelter shed at the car stop. Firemen said the damage exceeded $10,000.

County detectives today started out to fulfill their pledge to Betty, 9, and her sister, Mary, 2, of West View, whom they promised they would do their utmost to find their pet foxhounds, stolen when thieves broke into the kennels of Mrs. R. G. Smith, the girls' mother.

His housekeeper, Mrs. Lydia Swalles, 74, who was found unconscious with a tube leading from an open gas jet in her hand, was held for questioning. A note in her handwriting, police said, stated Sheppeid told her to shoot him because he had spent all her money in operating a poolroom.

Sheppeid until six years ago was known at all the country's harness race tracks as a manager and trainer. He handled Grace Bland, famous trotter, for the Hussey & Smith Company, of Sidney.

ELECTRA STAR TALKS :-: Florence Reed Discusses Life and Drama :-: THEATERS

Daughter of Roland Reed Rode on Knees of 'Rip' In Dressing Room

By GEORGE SEIBEL

"My earliest recollection of the theater," said Florence Reed, "is when I was taken into Joe Jefferson's dressing room and had a ride on Rip Van Winkle's knee." It was Jefferson who gave her father, the famous comedian Roland Reed, his first chance. Roland was a call boy in Philadelphia when the favorite comedian, Craig, was taken sick. It was Jefferson's idea to put the young Roland in the place of the horse that combat Oliver. And that was the beginning of a career which put Roland Reed with Nat Goodwin and Sol Smith Russell among America's best beloved stage figures.

George Seibel

Florence Reed has many other memories of her father's friends. Richard Mansfield used to come to their home, seat himself at the piano and sing. Robson and Crane were close friends of the family circle. She used to wonder what Stuart Robson meant with his pet joke, that his favorite poem was Longfellow's "Hanging of the Crane."

These memories of childhood also exist in the theatrical blood as very potent juice which fortifies Florence Reed's veins and makes her the outstanding actress she is in the O'Neill drama at the Nixon. But she owes even more to maternal training. Her mother was from Hamburg and she used to read the songs of Heine and Goethe, the ballads of Schiller and Uhland to the little girl. No wonder Florence Reed has imagination, and loves the German language which she speaks perfectly and fluently.

HER IDEAL ACTRESS

Her ideal actress, by the way, is Helene Thimig who played with Alexander Moissi in Reinhardt's production of Tolstoy's "Redemption"—the play known to the rest of the world as "The Living Corpse." She puts Helene Thimig even above Sarah Bernhardt and thinks her supremacy is due to sheer power of intellect through which she projects her emotional nature.

Reinhardt wanted to have Florence Reed take "The Shanghai Gesture" to Germany and play it in German, but other things came between.

She has found this play of John Colton's as hard to get out of as her famous father found "The Woman Hater," a comedy by David Demarest Lloyd, which the public never wearied of. Roland Reed accepted the first comedy written by George Broadhurst, who was then a bank clerk in Chicago. It was "The Wrong Mr. Wright" and proved a great success. But the public demanded "The Woman Hater," and in a few years it was again the main thing in the star's repertoire.

MISS REED'S DEBUT

The daughter did not appear on the stage until she was 15, then she had a part called the Kangaroo Girl in a comedy called "Dr. Pill." The next day Alan Dale, the most caustic of critics, said the whole cast was impossible and awkward except the little girl who did a kangaroo dance.

Florence Reed still treasures that criticism made all the more precious because Dale did not even know who she was.

As the heroine of "The Yellow Ticket," as the murderous Lady in the last important revival of "Macbeth," and in many other roles of great emotional stress, she has vindicated the theatrical inheritance from her sire. And in her thought and reading she is under her mother's influence still.

One of the books she was reading is the "Bhagavad-Gita." One of her favorite thinkers is Lao-Tse. She can talk about Karma Yoga and Shinto ritual. And she can play Christine in "Mourning Becomes Electra" so that you understand and pity.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Although there are about 25 characters in Mourning Becomes Electra, which will begin its second and final week in the Nixon next Monday, there are only five principal roles. These are played by Judith Anderson, Florence Reed, Walter Abel, Claire Wilbur and Thurston Hall. There also are three secondary parts and the others of the cast appear as persons who symbolize the ancient "chorus" of Greek drama. Of course, Mr. O'Neill's chorus doesn't sing, but the choruses of the Messrs. Euripides, Sophocles, Aristophanes, Aeschylus, et al, had to chant or look for another job. This eating habit of Mr. O'Neill's is all to the Greek, too, for Athenian opry was all done in the daytime and folks took their edibles with them. The idea of tossing eggs at the hams on the stage possibly dates from this practice.

When Monday rolls around two of the women in the life of the late Jack "Legs" Diamond will be on the stage. Mafion (Kiki) Roberts, Diamond's girl friend, is of the theater, so it is only natural that she is following her profession in Eastern vaudeville houses. Now Mrs. Alice Schiffer Diamond, widow, is to try it in a dramatic sketch that will split next week between Allentown and Reading, this state.

Heroine Goes A-Straying

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Morals for Women," one of those triangle dramas, opened a three-day engagement yesterday in the Sheridan Square. That should be long enough.

The story concerns a girl, who is more than a secretary to her employer. Then an old sweetheart from her home-town turns up, and she begins to regret.

The highlight of the film is an old-fashioned mother serving lemonade to her daughter's high-flying friends.

Bessie Love, Conway Tearle and John Holland make up the triangle. David Rollins and June Clyde do a smalltown brother and sister act. Edmund Breese and Emma Dunn appear as pa and ma.

The theme is sophisticated, but the dialogue is childish.

Some day the talkies are going to discover that heroines can be pure and sweet and still be interesting. And when they do—gosh, what a novelty it'll be!

Vaudeville on the stage includes a Chinese Kiddie Revue, the comic Lander Brothers and Gracie Barrie, who sings blues.

Enright Gets New Bill

Bernice Claire, star of stage and screen, opened a three-day engagement on the Enright stage yesterday. She is headlining a five-act vaudeville bill, which includes singing, dancing and comedy. Among the acts are Dave Vine and the Norman Thomas Five.

The screen has "Strictly Dishonorable," talkie version of the stage play. This film won a lot of praise from critics on its recent downtown showing. The story is that of a southern belle who finds adventure and romance in a New York speakeasy. The cast features Paul Lukas, Lewis Stone and Sidney Fox.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The twelfth anniversary of the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment is "celebrated" in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. The Globe Trotter supplies some statistics, and Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem.) of Texas, speaks on behalf of prohibition and Senator M. E. Tydings of Maryland likewise a Democrat, delivers exactly an opposite opinion, denouncing the law as an absolute failure.

A brilliant throng attends the reopening of the Hialeah Park race track in Florida. The card provides many thrills and Metrotone shows a two-furlong struggle between 18 2-year-olds which is won by Cheltenny, who noses out Try Sweet.

REPUBLIC IS BORN

The birth of the new Spanish Republic is acclaimed in historic Grenada with a monster demonstration in front of the City Hall.

On the ski slide at Cary, Illinois, the Norge Club holds its championship tourney in which Kaare Walberg of the Norwegian Olympic team, sets a record with a leap of 183 feet. The slide is one of the highest in the world and many of the jumpers fall with terrific smashes.

The season of winter sports is opened at Yosemite National Park with a costume pageant participated in by a great throng including Gov. Rolph and Miss Fay Hibbard, chosen Queen of the Carnival.

MONKEY BUSINESS

New York City holds one of the biggest Pekingese shows in history. Prominent society women bring their blue-blooded pets to compete in a royal doggie war.

While a shipload of monkeys from India was on its way up the bay in New York, a number of apes broke from their cages and took to the rigging. Hearst Metrotone News cameraman was aboard and secured some remarkable pictures of the ensuing hunt.

Gussie Berger, Or the Garbo In Person, Shows Ramon An Elusive Time

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.

One night when Greta Garbo was playing hide-and-seek with New York, she made Ramon Novarro get out of a cab and walk home.

This novel experience is related by Ramon, along with other intimate details of the now famous Gussie Berger episode.

On the occasion mentioned, Ramon was escorting Greta home from an evening of seeing the sights. Their cab drove up to the Ritz-Carlton, where, earlier in the evening, Greta had met Ramon in the lobby, and where he believed her to be stopping. To his amazement, she told him to get out, that she lived somewhere else and was going to keep the cab. There being nothing else to do, Ramon alighted and walked back to his own hotel.

Greta Garbo

Squiring La Garbo, I take, was a succession of uncertainties for Ramon.

DAY'S GOSSIP

When there are bigger parties given in Hollywood, the Gleasons will be connected with them in some way. Dropped into the Embassy Club after the opening of "The Fall Guy," to join several hundred other guests in welcoming the popular pair back to the local stage. Nancy Smith gave the party and it was a dress-up affair. Hollywood makes no distinction about Sunday night. Saw lots of film people . . . Lew Cody drinking punch . . . Charlotte Greenwood and Martin Broones sitting at a table near wall . . . Helen Ferguson talking animatedly . . . Eugene O'Brien sitting at a table with Adele Rowland and several other people . . . Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare, costs little, and saves money, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but a part is absorbed into the blood and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the clogged system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Noted for its prompt action in the relief of stubborn coughs, colds, bronchitis and other throat troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Here it is way past the middle of January with February 10, the beginning of Lent, just around the corner, and then, of course, social activities will show a perceptible decline. Always just before the Lenten season there is added acceleration to the social whirl and much traveling hither and yon. And what I am leading up to, is a meeting and luncheon of the Federation of Girls' School Societies to add interest to the coming week.

All the prominent girls' school alumnae belonging to the federation will attend the meeting and luncheon on Wednesday at the Twentieth Century Club, and many of this season's debs will be among the alumnae this season. Mrs. George Singer Ebbert is chairman of the federation, you know.

And now for the travel news. Did you know that the Lewis A. Parks, of Sewickley, had been in Gotham? They were guests at the Hotel Pierre during their sojourn, and returned home yesterday morning. COATS FOR EARLY SPRING ACCENT THE SHOULDER LINE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—No matter how slim our shoulders may be, they must, this season, bear the burden of the entire chic of the coat. For nearly every house is accenting the shoulder line, using all sorts of ingenious designs and devices and cleverly working them into the general line of the coat as well as conforming to the popular silhouette that is current just now. It is a grand method of giving the illusion of slimness to almost any figure, as from the shoulders down the line seems to taper most becomingly. Epaulettes, square padded shoulders, fur tops to sleeves, insets of fur, or puffs are all doing shoulder duty and making a fine job of it. Of course such sleeves are dated, for they mark the model as very definitely of this season's vintage. But they are certainly smart and we suppose that this virtue makes up for everything. One of the best methods of gaining shoulder fulness and not being too obvious about it is by using a standing, wide collar that sets well out right over the shoulders and produces the necessary effect.

* * *

ALREADY SMART, new, early spring coats are with us and we herewith show you a sketch of one of the most successful of all models in Maggy Rouff's splendid new collection. It is an afternoon coat in fawn broadcloth and it is luxuriously trimmed with brown astrakan. There is much that is new and interesting to be seen in this garment. The double breasted closing of the coat at the top is reminiscent of the Directoire period. Shoulder prominence is obtained by the standing wide collar, a collar that is becoming to every type except the short, stout woman with wide shoulders. For her it would be better to discard the collar and widen the inner choker of fur which crosses in narrow tabs in front. The coat ties at one side with two tabs cut in one piece with each front. The double sleeves have the under ones buttoned snugly from elbow to wrist, the outer ones edged with the fur.

* * *

HERE IS ANOTHER example of accenting the shoulder line by intricate trimmings as well as by fulness or ample cut at the top of the sleeve. This handsome broadtail coat from Paquin not only has a shirred, ample top to the sleeve but, in addition, the shoulder importance is stressed by two semi-detached pieces which cross the back, one over the other, and in pointed tabs partly attached to the sleeve tops. The body of the coat is straight and clinging.

Technique discovered that quickly removes stain and off-color—with absolute safety.

LIKE millions of others she has been fooled! Fooled into thinking that dull, offensive-looking teeth are an affliction she must endure simply because ordinary brushing has failed to make them white and attractive. Don't you make this mistake.

You can have teeth that others will admire. Just use a half-inch of antiseptic Kolynos on a dry brush twice a day. And much sooner than you expected your teeth will look like you want them to.

When it enters the mouth Kolynos instantly foams into every tiny crevice. It washes away stain and discoloration. It erases tartar. Then it does what no ordinary toothpaste can do . . . It kills millions of germs that pour into the mouth and cause tooth and gum troubles and bad breath.

This double-action actually cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury. It stimulates and invigorates the gums and purifies the mouth.

Now don't let your teeth look uncared-for another day. A half-inch of antiseptic Kolynos on a dry brush morning and night will quickly make them flashing white and keep them sound. Try it.

JACKETS, STARS TO CLASH

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Quinn Sticks in Majors.
Likely to Reach Goal.
Bush as Miller Manager.
Giants Rely on Rookie.
Pitt Still Tops Tartan.
Origin of Pivot Play.

30 YEARS IN BASEBALL AIM OF VET

YOUNG PITCHERS COME into the big baseball leagues, run their courses and pass out again after normal careers, but old Jack Quinn continues to roll right along, outliving them all. Here he is back again for still another season, signed to a new Brooklyn contract, and appointed to lead the first squad of Dodgers on the trip to the spring training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Press dispatches announcing that Quinn has signed his Roton contract for 1932 are interesting from another angle, as they signify the probable realization of the veteran spitballer's one remaining ambition: to round out 30 years on the diamond from the time when he first pitched in a professional league. That was in 1903 for the Connellsville club in the Pennsylvania State League. His career dates back even earlier, as he pitched for independent clubs before that time, but for 29 years since 1903, except for another independent engagement in 1906, he has been toiling steadily in real professional leagues.

Jack Quinn

QUINN IS ALSO set to place three other baseball marks to his credit in 1932. 20 years of service in the majors, 600 games pitched in the big show and 3,000 innings pitched on the mound. He has served 19 campaigns in the last set and up to date has taken part in 571 major league games and pitched a total of 2,856 innings.

The remarkable veteran in shifting over to the National League from the American last year worked in 39 games for Brooklyn, though he started only one, the Dodgers' opening game of the season in Boston. Only three pitchers in the Hevdler circuit appeared in a greater number of games, Jumbo Elliott in 52, and Silas Johnson and Phil Collins each in 42. Larry French, Charley Root and Guy Bush were the only others to equal Quinn's total of 39.

JACK STILL DECLINES to discuss his age. The record books list him as being headed for his forty-seventh birthday anniversary next July 5, but according to baseball pals of his early days he is several years older.

And so he was forced to step with a wave of his right hand when something went wrong with the pitching machine at Forbes Field on July 22, last year. At that he was back on duty in 15 days, his longest period out of action during the whole season.

IN SIGNING TO pilot the Minneapolis club this year, Donie Bush, former skipper of the Senators, Pirates and White Sox, is not making his first managerial venture in the American Association. Between his engagements with the Washington and Pittsburgh clubs he managed Indianapolis in that loop in 1924-25-26, and finished second in all three years. It was the snappy ball he had his club playing in an exhibition game with the Pirates that prompted the Pittsburgh owners to select him to succeed Bill McKechnie as manager, here in 1927. Minneapolis, Bush's new club, has not won a pennant since 1915. With Jewel Ens signed to coach the Detroit Tigers, two of the three men giving up managerial posts in the majors have found new jobs for 1932. The other, Wilbert Robinson, is being considered as manager by the Atlanta club of the Southern Association, which will make a definite choice between Robbie and Johnny Dobbs at a meeting scheduled for tomorrow.

Leonard Koenecke

IN COUNTING ON Leonard Koenecke, purchased from Indianapolis as a strengthening factor for the Giant outfield this year, John McGraw gives further evidence of a departure from his system of earlier seasons. Seldom did a green recruit break right in at the New York regular in those days.

Players who like Frankie Frisch won steady jobs immediately, were rare exceptions. George Burns was allowed to play in only 21 games in his first full season. Rube Marquard, Ferd Schupp, Travis Jackson and Mel Ott were groomed slowly. Ross Young and others were sent back to the minors for further seasoning, or had to serve a long apprenticeship on the Giant bench.

"IT ISN'T FAIR," McGraw used to say, "to throw young players with scant experience into the lineup. It isn't fair to them, or to the team. Major league baseball is an exacting profession, and a man should be well drilled in it before any responsibility is thrust upon him."

The plan to use Koenecke regularly indicates a change in ideas or conditions. McGraw appears to believe that this recruit can't miss, putting a great deal of faith in his record, which shows that Koenecke batted .353 in 103 games for Indianapolis last year, scoring 141 runs and making 224 hits, with 24 homers, 19 triples, high mark in the league, and 23 doubles included. The one thing that raises a question about the value of his figures, for major league estimates is that the American Association used the livest ball last year.

EVIDENTLY PITT STILL casts the same old spell over Carnegie Tech in basketball. Even when in their poorest stride in years and unable to beat any other opponent, the Panthers were able to knock off the Scots, 33 to 22, in their first meeting of the season last night, after running wild against them in the early stages and leading at the half by the unusually lopsided score of 26 to 6. That makes 14 times in a row the Blue and Gold has beaten the Skibos since Carnegie's last victory in the 1926-27 campaign.

PERHAPS TH' TARTANS with Lou Jegrova back and their regular lineup intact, will be able to turn the tables in the second tilt on February 2 in the Plaid gym. Such a move, however, it will be necessary for the Bleeding Hills to show more of an offensive than they have displayed to date.

Meanwhile, last night's outcome might be said to make Doyle she look pretty good. The Dukes beat Pitt, and Pitt beat Carnegie, which would seem to put Chick Davies team well in front for the present in the race for the city collegiate court title.

WHEN THE FORMERLY great New York College basketball team blew into town about seven years ago and ran over the low-lamous pivot play most fans believe Hagerty was responsible for the play, which was then developed by Dutch Dehnert, one of the best of modern players, was another entirely new.

But Dehnert had only [illegible] of the play, as [illegible] that most famous all-around athlete, Sammy Shields, who many years ago was physical director at the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association. The Shields team at that time had one of the best floor teams in the game, and Sammy, a clever player and a keen student of the game,

Dutch Dehnert

FOR A TEAM, up his sleeve in from stead, Sendy was a member of the strongest and best known basketball team of the time, the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., traveling as the New York Nationals. It was on this fam ous outfit, in a game against South Side's great team, at Old City Hall on New Year's Day, 26 years ago, that Shields showed the fans the famous play that later was to revolutionize the floor game. In that game South Side presented Harry Hough in its lineup for the first time. The New Yorkers won, 32 to 30, after a brilliant exhibition that was featured by Shields and his pivot play. Allie Brown, of Homestead, one of the stars of the old Central League, playing with Homestead, Johnstown and South Side, copied Shields' style and was successful with it. So the pivot, as used today by Dehnert, of the Resenblum Celtics, is not new, but is merely an improvement on the play as introduced by Shields.

PITT SHINES IN BRILLIANT 33-22 WIN

By JESS CARVER

When he was still a very small boy some one told Johnny Brown, of Braddock, that the only way to become a success was to stick to a thing until you had it mastered, whether it was running an engine, selling bonds, shoes, hats, collars, tires or safe-cracking. You had to stick to it, they told him, stick to it to the end.

Last night Pitt walloped Tech in the first game of the annual series between the rivals on the basketball court, 33 to 22. At the half, the Panthers, on the short end prior to the start of the contest, led by 26-6, a smashing, dashing, overpowering attack sweeping the Tartans from their feet.

The primary factor in this drive was John Brown, a player not considered good enough to make the trip to California with the Panthers this year, but a player who hasn't missed a day of practice in three years.

GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Playing Tech's center, towering Eddie Sientz off his feet passing, cutting and shooting with uncanny ability, Brownie accounted for five field goals and two fouls, for twice as many points as were scored by the entire Tartan team in the first 20 minutes of play. He completed his evening's work before being relieved by the ailing Russ Oberthurt with another field goal and a foul—15 points in all, the big shot of the night.

Quiet, unassuming Johnny Brown, of Braddock. Just a nice kid, they told you when you asked concerning his basketball efforts, a kid who tried hard but didn't seem to have it. Today he is the toast of the Pitt campus, and at Tech—well, just inquire over there yourself. Lanky Johnny Brown, of Braddock, the lad who led Pitt to its fourteenth consecutive triumph over Carnegie—a hero.

Charley Hyatt received a great hand the night he completed his varsity career at Pitt, but it was rivaled by the burst of applause accorded Brown last night. And if you think the jammed Stadium Pavilion didn't give canny Red Carlson—Dr. Carlson if you insist—the old throat, you're another think-a-comin'.

PANTHERS PRIMED

Carlson had his players in fine trim primed to the minute for the contest and set his man-for-man defense to check the Skibos at every opportunity. If the opportunity was not there, the boys made it, with the result that the Plaid was forced to hang away from out past the foul line almost all evening.

From start to finish there wasn't anything to it last night except Pitt. The Tartans were behind just once at 2-1, but after Brownie dumped in his first field goal to make it 3-2, the Panthers pounded on shooting point after point through the first bewildered and then demoralized Tartan aimout. After the count reached 11-6, the Panthers were unstoppable, piling up marker after marker until they boasted 26 markers to six for Carnegie at the half.

Brownie was ably assisted in this splurge of point getting by Don Smith, the crack Panther guard, and by Co-Captains Lawry and Willie Kowalik. Co-Captain Timmy threw a field goal from out in front that swished through without touching the rim and Kowalik sent five consecutive free throws through, making seven out of seven for his evening's work.

Tech's points came on field goals by Bob Smith and Logan Webster and fouls by Red Fergus.

EASE UP IN LAST HALF

With such a commanding lead, the Pan hets were content to take it easy in the second half, and were outscored by the Plaid. Most of Tech's shots were taken from away out in front, until late in the game when Coach Red Carlson himself inserted a new Skibos lineup, composed of nine football men, Rip Collins and four fifth stringers. It was after this combination broke into the Allen Hall, of Chicago, rated by pre-tournament calculations as one of the outstanding title threats, came back to defeat Bud Weiss, of St. Louis, 50 to 29, in 51 innings.

Arthur Thumblad, of Chicago, defending champion, kept his record clean by downing his fellow townsman, Len Kenney, former champion, 50 to 41, in 47 innings.

Frank S. Sestile, of Buffalo, won his second contest by defeating Gus Comulos, Eugene, Ore., 50 to 34, in 48 innings.

They were handicapped by Dr. Bellyse, a famous turf figure of that day. Tarazon, owned by Sir William Wynne, and Handel, owned by Mr. Mython, dead-heated three times during the same race. In their third attempt the two horses ran on until they reeled like drunken men and could scarcely carry their riders to the scales. Asbury, owned by Sir John Edgerton, a third participant, finally won, although he had been beaten by the dead-heaters by a neck in the first heat. JOHN DEWITT—The life of John DeWitt, 78 years of age, has been filled with adventure and peril on both land and sea. Although he has been the victim of 50 accidents, ranging from sea hurricanes and battles with sharks to a seven-story fall down an elevator shaft, he has had the good fortune to never sustain a broken bone. He lives at the Y. M. C. A., Portland, Ore. THE RIFLE FIRED 285,000 TIMES—To test a newly-created special cartridge, a firearms company took one of its stock .22 caliber rifles and fired it 285,000 times without cleaning the gun barrel. After the test the gun was found to be in good condition, with no corrosion, pitting or leading in the barrel. This is attributed to the cleanliness of the cartridges used in the experiment.

WAGNER RATES MATTY BEST

Honus Wagner, old shortstop of the Pirates, named Christy Mathewson as the greatest pitcher he had ever seen, Larry Lajoie as the best infielder and Fred Clarke as the best outfielder in an interview during the Sports Quiz period of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Trained Seals over Station WCAE last night.

Honus also rated Ty Cobb as undoubtedly the best base runner in American League history. He added that he looked for the Pirates to be a winning club under the direction of George Gibson, who returns as manager this season.

Other speakers included Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association; Julius Levin, of the sports staff of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and Jules Beck, matchmaker of Motor Square Garden. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was master of ceremonies.

The list of horses nominated for the race has been announced by the Maryland Jockey Club operators of Pimlico track here. It will be the forty-first running of the race, over a mile and three-sixteenths course for a purse of $50,000 and possession for a year of the Woodlawn vase.

The 96 nominations for the event, open to 3-year-olds are owned by 59 different interests. Last year 90 were nominated by 51 owners. Nominations closed January 11.

SPORT VIGNETTES

This unseasonable weather has made a fine fabricator out of Jack Perry, former local welterweight boxer, who has just returned from a six-year sojourn in Los Angeles, bringing with him his middleweight, Guy Salerno, who will be seen in action in local rings shortly . . . Before leaving the Coast, Perry warned Salerno, a Coast product, of the snowstorms and cold weather he would encounter in the East . . . "And would you believe it?" asks Perry, "the only snow we saw was in the mountains less than 100 miles from home."

The salary-cutting campaign in baseball will be felt by the star Negro players as well as those in organized baseball. . . . It is said the Homestead Grays, Kansas City Monarchs and Hilldale, of Philadelphia, three of the strongest Negro teams in the business, have reached an agreement whereby they will offer their players slashed contracts and agree to refrain from outbidding one another for their services. . . . Washington's Birthday, February 22, has been selected as the date of the National A. A. U. indoor track and field championship meet, to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Jack Perry, referred to above, witnessed both of Al Brown's bouts in Los Angeles with Newsboy Brown and Speedy Dado before the bantamweight champion came here and found himself unable to go through with a match against Mose Butch last week. He says Brown was in poor physical condition and took two of the worst beatings he ever saw a good boxer assimilate. Guy Salerno, Perry's middleweight boxer, has lost only two bouts in 48 starts as a professional, following a successful campaign as an amateur. He has been developed from the start by Perry. . . . Guy stands 6 feet tall, yet can make 158 pounds without difficulty. He attended the School of Pharmacy at the University of Southern California before he decided to stake his future on boxing. . . . He has boxed in Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Francisco, Ventura, San Jose, San Diego and other cities and would like to break in here against the winner of the Paul Pirrone-Tiger Joe West bout, carded at the Moose Temple next Tuesday night. . . . He is an Italian youth of 22. . . . Joe Roche is listed among his knockout victims on the Coast.

Tommy Loughran plans to go on. . . . He says he won't be satisfied to quit the ring as a loser in his bout with young Steve Hamas the other night. . . . He attributes the setback to having taken the bout on short notice and having fought too often in recent months. . . . It was only the third knockout of his long and honorable career in the ring. . . . The first was administered by an unknown named Johnny Viggio in 1919, and the second by Jack Sharkey in 1929. . . . Jack Dempsey calls his manager, Leonard Sacks, who was here a few days ago arranging an exhibition for him, "The Rabbi." . . . And Sacks calls his boss Jake. . . . Estelle Taylor's pet name for Jack was Ginsberg. . . . Anyone not in on the know would have a fine time following their conversation about one another.—HARRY KECK.

Fairmont vs. Bethany at Bethany.
Duquesne vs. George Washington U. at Washington, D. C.

The Dukes wind up their stand in the nation's capital tonight by meeting George Washington, and Geneva and Waynesburg clash in a Tri-State Conference battle at Waynesburg in the feature tussles of the district college basketball card.

In a third contest, Fairmont meets Bethany at Bethany.

Geneva, severely whipped by Westminster Tuesday, will be out to avenge the setback at the expense of the Yellow Jackets. At the same time, the Jackets haven't been clicking any too well of late and are going to be just as anxious to splash over into the victory column as are the Covenanters.

Bethany, unexpectedly beaten by Wash-Jeff Tuesday, figures to regain its winning stride at the expense of the Fairmonters, who were routed by Wesleyan on Tuesday.

DEFEAT CATHOLIC U.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Duquesne University downed its second consecutive local opponent last night, outlasting Catholic University by the count of 34 to 31 to score its sixth straight victory. Two brilliant Catholic U spurts failed to check the hurry Dukes who gave one of the greatest exhibitions of basketball seen here in many moons.

The unrelenting final whistle stopped a Catholic U. rally that had nearly 1,000 fans on their feet shrieking for its continuance.

Duquesne had toyed with the determined Cardinals like masters combated against novices through half of the second half. The

By CARL W. SHATTO

The International Hockey League race is so close that a single victory can transform numerous groans and moans into as many hurrahs and cheers.

Tonight, at Duquesne Garden, the Yellow Jackets are to meet the Syracuse Stars in a league fixture, and by winning the local skaters can vault into fourth place and within one-half game of third place in the standings.

JACKETS RENEW FIGHT

Two days ago anything written about the Jackets had to do with their injuries, their slump and the excellent chance of their dropping into the cellar.

The 2-1 victory which Pittsburgh scored in London Tuesday night brought about the change in attitude.

Jacket injuries however, unfortunately are not a dead topic, and the league cellar isn't so far removed that the locals can't see what it looks like. Earl Miller, star center, who suffered a charleyhorse in a workout here Sunday, was not able to participate in the London battle, but he expects to be back in uniform tonight.

A Syracuse victory here will enable the Stars to move up to within a point of Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the race, and will leave the Jackets only one point removed from last notch in the standings.

And a victory for the Stars is well within the realm of possibility. They have gained two wins and a tie in four meetings with the Redmen, and in their last two starts they have defeated Buffalo and Detroit, holders of first and second place respectively. Three of their last four games have resulted in Syracuse triumphs.

The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets-Syracuse hockey game at Duquesne Garden tonight will be broadcast through Station WWSW, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Jack Keough, of WCAE, will be at the microphone, assisted by Carl Shatto, hockey writer.

AFTER NEW PLAYERS

Grant has replaced Joe Miller, former Pittsburgh goalie, in the Stars' cage, and is proving a tough man to beat.

Coach Charley Reid late today may renew his efforts to obtain Rusty Hughes, defense man, and Pete Palangio, forward, from Syracuse. Mickey Roach, pilot of the visitors, recently turned a deaf ear to Reid's trade overtures.

In view of the fact that it produced the victory goal in London, after Doc Romnes had opened the scoring, the Proudlock-Fields-Gregg trio probably will be permitted to stand as the starting front line. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh		Syracuse
Cox	G	Grant
Marks	R.D.	Hughes
Fraser	L.D.	Savage
Romnes	C.	Pringle
Gregg	R.W.	McArthur
Proudlock	L.W.	Clark

Subs—Pittsburgh, Arbour, Miller, Dunning, Rowdon, Holden, Barton, Bennett; Syracuse, Teasdale, Waite, Markle, Donaldson, Howe, Martin, Downie.

INDIANS RALLY TO WIN

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 21.—(AP)—After spotting Windsor two goals in the first period, the Cleveland Indians came back with a burst of scoring in the second frame and trounced the Bulldogs, 5 to 2, in an International League Hockey game last night.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Appointment of Robert J. Nelson, Reading Negro, to the State Athletic Commission was announced by Gov. Pinchot. Nelson succeeds Frank J. Wiener, former chairman, whose term expired last May. His appointment is effective today.

The Curry Independents defeated Piney Fork in a night soccer game at South Park yesterday, 4 to 3.

N. B. A. MAY 'DETHRONE' MAX AS CHAMP

SHARKEY BOUT PAPERS READY TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, faces the possibility of losing the title without throwing a glove.

This was indicated as the result of a poll made by the Associated Press of members of the National Boxing Association, who will vote on a proposal to vacate Schmeling's championship because of his failure to defend it or to sign to defend it within the six months' time limit prescribed by the N. B. A.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., dispatched ballots to the membership and expects them to oust the German titleholder.

"The rules are made by the membership of the N. B. A.," Gen. Clinnin said, "and I expect them to be followed out to the letter. That, at least, has been the procedure before when the membership has been asked to vote on questions of vacating a champion's title."

Gen. Clinnin said the complete balloting would not be available until probably the middle of February, as the votes must come from 29 states, several boxing commissions in Canada, from Cuba, Porto Rico and Mexico and from affiliatipns abroad.

EAST SUPPORTS MAX

Karl D. Malone, secretary of the Kentucky State Board of Athletic Control, said he would vote to uphold the rules of the N. B. A. and further declared that the N. B. A. vote would be 100 per cent to vacate Schmeling's title.

Commissioner Tom Morrissey, of Colorado, also said he would vote to uphold the N. B. A. rules.

Some support for Schmeling, however, came from the East with the declaration by Edward C. Foster, N. B. A. member for Rhode Island, that he would support Schmeling. Thomas Donohue, of Connecticut, also said he would support Schmeling's stand.

Gen. Clinnin's decision to send out the ballots came after the collapse of the Walker-Schmeling fight, scheduled for Miami. Schmeling's time limit to sign for a fight in defense of his title was January 3, but on that date negotiations were in progress for the Walker fight.

If Schmeling is stripped of his title, he may not be allowed to appear in exhibitions in states with N. B. A. affiliations. At least he will not be allowed to advertise himself as champion, Gen. Clinnin indicated.

CONTRACTS IN MAKING

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Pending the arrival of a delegation of Jack Sharkey representatives, lawyers toiled yesterday over contracts for Max Schmeling's heavyweight title defense against the Boston sailor, tentatively scheduled for June here.

Little difficulty is expected in bringing the warriors to terms for the settlement of a controversy that has raged since the German first won title recognition here by defeating Sharkey on a foul almost two years ago.

The contracts must be presented to the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow in order to ensure reinstatement of Schmeling, who has been under suspension here since his failure to give Sharkey a return match. Madison Square Garden officials, who will promote the match, said the contract would be ready for signing tomorrow morning.

Vanderpool Bows In Big Upset At Hialeah

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—In one of the biggest turf upsets since Jim Dandy defeated Gallant Fox in the 1930 Travers, Comstockery, 6-year-old gelding from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable which campaigned last year in steeplechase events, yesterday scored a nose victory over William M. Moore's Vanderpool in the Boynton Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Comstockery, making his first appearance since last August, ran the seven furlongs over a muddy track in 1.24 4-5 and paid the long odds of $119.60 for a $2 straight mutuel ticket. Vanderpool, famous for winning 15 straight races as a 2 and 3-year old, took the place a length and a half in front of F. A. Carreaud's Kincsem. My Daddy was fourth and last.

Red (Popeye) Silverman, with two field goals and as many fouls led the scoring for Tech. Seigal, former Fifth Avenue High School star, also dumped a brace of buckets for the Skibos, but one of his and one of Silverman's came during the dying moments of the game.

The Panther freshman started the night off by whipping Carnegie's Plebes, 28 to 22. The Panthers led almost from the first. Panthers rallied in the closing minutes of play to salt the game away. The lineups:

MARINO, GOLD BATTLE IN M'KEESPORT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Little Tony Marino, McKeesport's flyweight hope, will be out to make a showing against Marty Gold, Philadelphia veteran, in the 10-round main bout in the Tube City tonight, hoping thereby to land a wind-up battle in Pittsburgh, where he has appeared only once as a professional and then in an opening number.

Tony Marino

Gold is a cagy boxer and a good right-hand puncher, but Marino plans to go after him right from the start in the hope of stowing him away.

The arrival of Marino, a brother of Tommy Ryan, has helped to kindle new interest in the McKeesport sector, and Promoter Jim McGirr is looking for an upward trend in the vicinity of the box office tonight.

GROVE BOXES OLDACH

Three six-round bouts make up the preliminary card. Davy Grove, of the North Side, boxes Matty Oldach, of Erie, in the semi-final. Charley Blozevich, of St. Michaels, meets Young Bordell, of New Kensington, in the second number, and Amos (Bearcat) Jones, McKeesport Negro, holder of the district amateur middleweight title, makes his professional debut in the opener against Chuck Zelnack, a seasoned performer from Glassport.

Meanwhile local fans also will turn their attention to the goings-on at Flint, Mich., tonight, for Battling Gizzy, Donora whirlwind, boxes the veteran Cowboy Eddie Anderson in a 10-round bout there, a "natural" since both Gizzy and Anderson recently have beaten Roger Bernard, of Flint.

Between Rounds

Tom Maico and Roger Brooks will box the six-round semi-final to the Fight Joe Reed-Paul Firpone bout in the Moose Temple next Tuesday night. Brooks has Firpone hails from Cleveland.

Charley Civvetta, of Uniontown, meets Arden Hefron, of Tel (City), in the main bout of an amateur show in Oil City next Monday night.

Apples Meyers, the Moose Temple promoter, announces that he has reopened his old headquarters in the Strand Hotel and may be reached by calling Grant 4320. He will hold over all reservations from last year's list unless notified to the contrary.

Although the decision in the Johnny Jadick-Tony Canzoneri bout in Philadelphia Monday night was unanimous award ing Jadick the championship, ringside critics maintain Canzoneri really had an edge.

Jack Hester and Lee Bloom, Youngstown trunk box a 10-rounder in Columbus tomorrow night. Al Ettore meets Sam Weiss in a 10-rounder at the Columbus Club in Philadelphia with Leonard Diano and Ace Clark boxing the semi-final.

When Ted Lavina opposes Jimmy Ahn in the main bout in Detroit tomorrow night he will be taking the place of Tommy Grogan, of Omaha. Hill has scored three knockouts since arriving in this country to box under the management of Ray Arcel and is one of the best of the Filipino boxers he recently stopped Howard McLean with a single punch in Detroit.

Jimmy Bean boxes Johnny Dwyer, A. F. Battles meets Mickey Dugan and Joey Brown engages Larry Glass in six-round preliminaries to the return bout between Frankie Bojarski and Harry Devine in Erie tomorrow night.

Entries close next Monday night for the A. M. A. junior championship tournament to be staged at the Keystone A. C. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of next week.

Rose Fiesta boxes Juan Diaz and Jimmy Vaughn tackles Eddie McCarthy in feature six-round bouts in Cleveland's Equestrium arena tomorrow night. Lou Gonzales takes on Tony Marcheso in another bout on the card.

Fiesta Nelson has been signed to box Jackie Brady in the 10-round semi-final to the Leo Houck-Jackie Fields bout for the world welterweight title in the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

A promising young local heavyweight prospect, Jerry Hart (nee Jerry Gerbacardi), of Troy, said will make his ring debut soon. He is managed by Jack Hollister and Joey Reynolds and is working out daily in Motor Square Garden. Reynolds discovered this 6-foot 5-inch boob driving a truck and put him in training. George Engel and Art Rooney took him to New York, where he worked out with Primo Carnera. Hart is only 20 years old. He has a reach of 78 inches.

The six-round bout between Hoffman and Hill, Braddock, Pa., heavyweights, scheduled for next Tuesday night, is among the shows to be cancelled.

Tom Heeney and Francis Sinnott are matched for Los Angeles next Tuesday night.

Benny Leonhardt, Chicago featherweight who for some months attracted some ballyhoo in the past summer, plans to refurn soon for bouts about Fraser, another Chicago boxer who appeared here at the same time, is now a prize ring writer on the staff of the Chicago Tribune, he writes Eddie McArdle, who handled him here.

Mickey Lavin, boxer, Eddie Andrews, a Kelly meets Frankie Grimes and Eddie Bennett engages Jack Chevalier in six-round bouts at Hartford, Ct., next Tuesday night.

Boxers and their managers around here to appear at Eddie Kaphan's new club on the Hill are requested to communicate with Jack White, the matchmaker at his office, 305 Wood street.

LOTT PRESSED TO WIN

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Favored to sweep through the Canadian covered courts tennis championship for his fourth straight title, George M. Lott Jr., of Chicago, American second ranking player, almost caught a fatal reverse yesterday in a second round match with William Thompson of Portland, Ore.

Overconfident, the United States second ranking player was forced to three sets by the Westerner before he finally pulled out a victory, 10-8, 4-6, 6-2.

Two of the later American brigade fell before Mont'real players. Flaia Bricka of Pittsburgh, losing to Roland Legault, 7-9, 6-3, and John Nailon of Boston, unable to C. W. Leslie, 6-2, 2-6.

Berkeley Bell of New York defeated H. Paul Emard of Montreal 6-1, 6-4. J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., won from C. G. Limpton of Boston, 6-2, 6-1, and Fritz Mercier of Bethlehem, Pa., defeated G. A. D'Arcy of Boston.

WALLACE PLAYS REID TODAY

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21.—John D. Wallace of Pittsburgh teed off this morning the first round of match play in the Glenn H. Curtiss Trophy golf tournament over the municipal course at Miami Springs.

He is opposing F. Z. Reid of Cleveland in the third flight. Wallace turned in a card of 49-49—98 in the qualifying round.

John B. Ryerson of Coopers-town, N. Y., winner of the event last year, won the medal with 39-34—73. H. F. Boebert of La-Grange, Ill., was in second place with 36-39—75, and Winfield Day, 16-year-old Chicago star, was third with 41-35—76.

T. Philips Perkins, former British amateur champion playing here for the first time this year, could do no better than 38-41—79.

M.-A. MAY TAKE IN ALTOONA

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—If a suitable field can be obtained, Altoona will be represented in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League next summer.

A movement to obtain a franchise has been launched and the league president, Elmer M. Daily of Ebensburg, Pa., came here a few days ago and had a talk with local sportsmen.

Efforts are being made to obtain the old high school athletic field but the School Board so far has failed to act upon the application.

Greensburg Honors Jess Quatse Tonight

Jess Quatse, all-America football center for the Panthers and Stanley Keck, Greensburg's first all-America, here are to be honored at a banquet by friends in Walton's Tea Room, on the Lincoln highway, tonight. Coach Jock Sutherland of Pitt, Lutz DiMeolo of New York U., State Senator James Rooney, and Jess Carter, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports department, are listed as speakers. A purse of gold is to be presented Quatse.

Boxing Bill Passes In Illinois Senate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A 15-round boxing bill passed the Senate yesterday, 38 to 3. It provides that the limit for heavyweight bouts in Illinois shall be increased from 10 to 15, and that the state's share of gross receipts as license fee shall be raised from 10 to 15 per cent. The bill went to the House for action.

BOSTWICK HORSE WINS

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Bostwick, owned by Frederick Lee, won the Hurst Park Handicap, carrying top weight, by his length from Bellini, a mount and 11 others. The course is two miles and fifty yards; the stakes £100.

PIRATES' KID CATCHERS VIE FOR BERTH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Two kid catchers, each running neck with pep, will battle for the honor of being the Pirate first-string catcher of the year.

In this corner we have Hal Finney, who won his Buccaneer badge of courage in the closing weeks of last season. Over there is Bill Brenzel, lively Worcester and native Californian who caught for the San Francisco Missions last year.

Hal Finney

Of similar physiques, Finney and Brenzel are almost 6 feet in height and each weigh about 170. They are right-hand batters.

Famous as a catcher himself, Manager George Gibson of the Pirates will not have to look long to see the real abilities possessed by Hal and Bill. If either can bat .250 or better he should be a brilliant backstop.

The catching field, nevertheless, is not restricted to the two strippings. Eddie Phillips, first-string receiver of last season, and Earl Grace, a dandy lefthand batter, will have much to say in a nice way.

Phillips has the longest punch of the quartet, but he doesn't put it over often enough. Grace looks like a real sticker.

But the enthusiasm owned by Finney and Brenzel is apt to win either the big role.

Chillysauce

Wilbur Cox has worked and run the hills around Heights roster nearly three on the past two months. Bruce is no keen judge, but he has taken advantage of the remarkable weather to spin off 10 holes any time anybody mentions the Beech game.

Tex Irvin, who ran the Schenley cross country team to the championship of the Greater Pittsburgh League last year, is now coaching the Pitt freshman football squad. He tried his hand at basketball with Dr. William Marks of the university Sunday, the doctor's sixth chased Irvin to the outdoor stuff.

GUNDELFINGER ADVANCES

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 21.—W. T. Gundelfinger of Pittsburgh is playing his second round match for the Florida East Coast women's golf championship over St. Augustine links today. He is opposing E. O. Livesay of Columbus, O., in the title 16.

Gundelfinger yesterday gained vengeance over E. T. MacGovern, of Great Barrington, Mass., for the defeat the latter handed the Pittsburgher in the first round of the same tournament last year, but Gundelfinger scored a more notable victory by 3 and 2. MacGovern was the winner last year by 2 and 1.

Tommy Goodwin, 18-year-old Monroe, N. Y., star continued his fine stroking and disposed of H. A. Somerville of Charlottesville, Va., by 7 and 6. Goodwin relinquished only one hole for the duration of the contest.

Borotra to Quit French Cup Team

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—French sporting circles were much disturbed today over an article published in Tennis and Golf announcing that Jean Borotra, noted French tennis player, does not intend to play as a member of the Davis Cup team this year.

Efforts are being made to have him reconsider his decision because it is felt his absence from the team would threaten France's defense of the trophy. Borotra said pressure of business, fatigue and the fact he is 33 years old made him feel it advisable to retire from Davis Cup competition.

Blow Causes Heart Paralysis, Boxer Dies

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Jan. 21.—(AP)—George Bell, 20-year-old Bellingham boxer, died here last night less than seven minutes after he climbed through the ropes for one of his few professional appearances.

He dropped during an exchange of blows in the second round.

An autopsy disclosed, physicians said, that "death was due to paralysis of the heart, caused by a direct blow."

Bell's opponent, Richard Howard, 16, was placed under technical arrest.

O'Doul, Quinn Fred Lindstrom Come to Terms

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Lefty O'Doul, Brooklyn outfielder, has accepted terms and signed a 1932 contract which calls for a 5 per cent salary reduction.

Lefty said he not only signed the contract, but also wrote a letter thanking the club management for the "nice treatment" he received last season, when he went into a slump for several weeks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The holdout list of the New York Giants for a time the most virulent in either major league, was further reduced with the "re-sign" of Freddie Lindstrom's signed contract. An accompanying note said he was "perfectly satisfied" with the terms.

Jesse Petes Quinn, one of the few surviving spitball pitchers, sent in his signed Brooklyn contract for 1932, but word came from San Francisco that Gordon Slade, infielder, and Ernest Lombardi, catcher, were returning unsigned their papers.

German Company Joined By Aluminum in Pool To Develop Magnesium

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE ALUMINUM COMPANY of America and I. G. Farbenindustrie A.-G. of Germany have joined forces to develop the commercial possibilities of magnesium, a metal lighter than aluminum, according to an announcement made in New York today.

The two organizations have formed a new corporation, the Magnesium Development Company, which will have the advantage of the combined experience, technique and patent rights. The organization, which has been incorporated in Delaware, will make recent discoveries about magnesium available to American industry through license agreements and instruction.

Magnesium is a newcomer in the family of commercial metals. Its possibilities have captivated the imagination of engineers and scientists for many years but difficulties have blocked its wide spread utilization until the recent perfection of new alloys and processes. Five years ago at a Federal Trade Commission hearing on the business of the Aluminum Company, an official testified that his organization had spent several million dollars on experiments without securing any tangible results with magnesium up to that time.

* * *

Magnesium Two-Thirds Weight of Aluminum

MAGNESIUM WEIGHS one-fourth as much as iron or steel and two-thirds as much as aluminum, according to the announcement of the formation of the new company. This makes it advantageous for many users where extreme lightness is essential. Magnesium was isolated in 1808 but it remained only a laboratory product for 100 years. Its value as a construction material was first appreciated in 1909 and the improvement of the electrolytic process for its production made the metal commercially practicable.

Since that time research work has been going on in the United States and abroad, chiefly in Germany. Numerous patents have been granted as highly technical developments have been mastered. The announcement declares that the new company will own the patent rights of the two participating industrial organizations. With this combination of foreign and domestic owned patents made available for American industry, the usefulness of magnesium will be greatly increased.

* * *

Die Casting Process Considered Important

PARTICULAR IMPORTANCE is attached to the perfection in Germany of a process for making die castings of magnesium alloys. The accuracy of the castings is sufficiently great to eliminate machining operations which are essential with heavier metals. This, combined with the advantage of lightness, is expected to give magnesium an opening for purposes now served by cheaper metals.

Research has made it possible to produce magnesium and its alloys in many forms. In addition to die castings, it can be made into sand castings, forgings, sheets, rods, tubing, wire, ribbon and powder.

For many years the chief use of the metal was as flashlight powder for photographic use. More recently it has started to invade the aircraft field as an alloy with other metals.

The Magnesium Development Company will be headed by Walter H. Duisberg, of 521 Fifth avenue, New York City. The board of directors will consist of representatives of the Aluminum Company and I. G. Farbenindustrie.

STOCK MARKET MOVES UP SLIGHTLY

Tobacco Shares Again Show Firmness; Telephone, Can, Steel Gain Point or So

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.) — The stock market worked a little higher today, but lacked conviction that its immediate course was upward.

Trading was apathetic, as traders withdrew to the side lines pending a clearer view of the ground immediately ahead. Uncertainty surrounding the European debt situation, the railway wage conference and United States Steel's dividend were some of the things holding the market back.

Tobaccos were again firm, notably the American tobacco issues, which rose about 2 points, in expectation of another extra dividend. Rails manifested hopefulness over the wage conference, and there was a sprinkling of small advances elsewhere. Issues up a point or so included American Can, American Telephone, United States Steel, Case, Coca Cola, Alaska Juneau, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, Missouri Pacific preferred, American Water Works, Western Union, and some of the New York fractions.

The latest slant on the railway conference circulated in brokerage quarters was that an agreement on a 10 per cent wage reduction may be announced over the coming week-end.

Wall street regarded as the most encouraging development of the day the agreement of the Senate and House conferees on the reconstruction finance measure, and indications that it might be passed by both houses and signed by the President by the end of the week. With the reconstruction corporation finally approved, and the railway wage matter settled, prominent bankers feel that the most pressing domestic problems will have been taken care of.

But in the meantime, the foreign outlook remains clouded.

Somewhat larger gold withdrawals by France and Belgium, some bankers felt, might influence some delay in the Federal Reserve's credit expansion policy, although it was explained that the Federal Reserve was easily able to pay off all foreign balances here. They are estimated at about $700,000,000. The Federal Reserve "free" or excess gold is approximately $800,000,000, and if enactment of the reconstruction finance measure brings a return of hoarded currency, the free gold will be considerably increased.

STEEL PLANT PACE UP

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 21.—Reports of higher steel plant operations in nearby Youngstown districts continue to come in. The slowly expanding rate of ingot production in the Mahoning Valley is encouraging.

Wheeling Steel Corporation has advanced its melting rate at Steubenville to above 50 per cent of capacity to meet greater requirements of its bar, strip, skelp and sheet rolling mills, while Follansbee Bros. Company has placed its Follansbee, W. Va., mills on a sharply higher operating basis as for sheet and tin plate.

Carnegie Steel Company's two Youngstown district open-hearth plants, with an ingot capacity of nearly 1,800,000 tons, are operating at about 50 per cent of rated capacity.

Pittsburgh Forgings Officers Promoted

Edwin Hodge, Jr., has been elected chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Forgings Company and F. D. Foote was elected president. Mr. Hodge had been president and Mr. Foote vice president. R. A. Mitchell, in charge of operations, was elected vice president.

Atlantic Seaboard Power Output Off

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Consumption in the Atlantic seaboard region continues at a comparatively small rate of decrease from a year ago. For the week ended January 16 output was off 2.6 per cent as against a decrease of 9.4 per cent for the central industrial region, a decrease of 6.4 per cent for the Chicago district and 7.4 per cent for the Pacific coast.

FOLLIES OF U. S. LAWS AID OUR NEIGHBORS

Prohibition and Excesses In Tariff Cause Trade To Grow Across Borders

By MERRYL S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 21.—The legislative follies of the American people enable our neighbors to build up whole industries to trade on our foibles. This thought is emphasized by my one-day stopover at this four-year-old magnificent Spanish type resort.

At this place the affluent seek escape from worries over business depression. They find release here just below the California state line partly because the resort is free from legal inhibitions. The fashionable drink and gamble with savoir faire and subtlety whereas the more impecunious gratify the same psychological impulses more crudely in the nearby wide open town of Tia Juana, just south of the border.

Mr. Rukeyser.

TRADE TYPICAL

The trade which flourishes here as a by-product of American prohibition and tariff excesses is typical of what takes place along both borders of the United States and in nearby foreign countries, especially in the West Indies. Open bars openly arrived at make these foreign resorts compete with America spas. Moreover, tariff excesses at home enable foreign merchants to offer to American tourists such products as French perfumes at half the home prices. If economic self-sufficiency is to be regarded as a sound ideal for the United States these leaks resulting from noble legislative experiments deserve attention. Prior to 1930 American tourist expenditures abroad went far toward enabling debtor countries to get sufficient foreign exchange to meet their debt service.

More People Are Becoming Stock Owners

By B. C. FORBES

MORE NOT fewer Americans are becoming owners of stocks. This fact will create widespread astonishment. Popular assumption has been that holders of stocks were being forced all over the country to part with them.

Here are the latest facts.

General Motors reports 313,000 stockholders, more than ever before in its history.

U. S. Steel Corporation sent dividend checks last month to 174,507 stockholders, a new maximum and 7,719 more than at the close of the previous quarter.

Mr. Forbes

Radio Corporation of America closed the year with 108,851 stockholders. Never before had the total surpassed the hundred thousand mark. At the end of June its total was under 75,000, while in April 1928 it had only 11,976.

United Corporation, Morgan-sponsored utility, reports 87,025 stockholders now, compared with 68,404 at the end of 1930.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey has doubled its list of stockholders in five years. It now has 87,196.

Notwithstanding unfortunate events in the banking world during recent times 15 New York City institutions ended the year with 328,874 stockholders, a gain of 9 per cent for the year. The same banks had only 19,401 in 1920, the increase since then having been 1,596 per cent.

WE HEAR much about concentration of wealth. These figures suggest diffusion of wealth. How happy a development would it be for America were it revealed, after recovery gets well under way, that many thousands of individuals and families of modest means acquired possession of meritorious stocks at unprecedentedly low prices.

APPARENTLY A LOT of folks haven't succumbed to the abject pessimism and inexplicable blindness which have afflicted the big people in Wall Street. Short selling goes merrily on in the financial world, notwithstanding that stocks have declined an average of some 80 per cent from their boom peaks.

PRESIDENT JAMES R. BANCROFT, of the American Institute of Finance, aptly points out:

"When General Motors was 91 it was a great company, with a future of limitless expansion. But, will we buy the same stock at 20? Oh, no! At 90, great company. At 20, pooh!

"Radio at 114 was a grand long term investment. Great possibilities! Television! The Lord only knew what miracles it would next bring forth! At 5 to 6 you scarcely hear its name mentioned. The same stock. The same company. The same long pull prospects—whatever they were.

"The public utilities were the greatest possible long pull investment when they were selling at 30-50 times their earnings. No depression could stop them. Now that they are selling for only 10 times their earnings, and have shown in great measure the stability of earning power predicted, we refuse to purchase them. Electric Bond and Share at 189 was the sure road to wealth. At plain 9 it can only bring loss.

"There will be more fortunes built in the next few years than at any time in the life of this generation."

THE BEAST OF THE CITY -:- -:- A Story of Fatal Beauty That Lurks In All Big City Jungles -:- -:- By JACK LAIT

Gangster's Story Implicates Ed in Robbery and Two Murders

(Adapted from the original motion picture story of W. R. Burnett with screen play by John L. Mahin, produced by Cosmopolitan Productions and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.)

CHAPTER XIII.

The so-called police third degree is usually a laugh to the seasoned criminal. The professional crook always thinks he is smarter than the copper—and many times he is. When he realizes the police are going to get rough and put him through the mental torture mill, he comes clean with everything they want to hear. He'll confess anything to stall along, knowing that a smart "mouthpiece" can have the confession thrown out on the grounds that it was obtained under duress.

The police although paid to protect the public, never get much sympathy in such cases. Not even in court. The public goes indignant when word seeps out that the cops have treated a guy rough: punched his jaw, jerked his chair out from under him, refused to give him water or kept him from his beauty nap. The criminal may rob, kidnap and kill, but the public realizes something romantic in his actions. But let a cop digress from soft words and kind actions and see the reactions.

In some cities they treat their criminals with strong medicine. They have at the detective bureaus what is known as the "goldfish room." The etymology is obscure unless it was derived from the expression of a well-known writer who made a crack about "as much privacy as a goldfish." A crook in the goldfish room certainly doesn't have any physical or mental privacy. Anyway, the bad boys are shown the "goldfish" with a rubber hose with which they are massaged until they are ready to tell the truth—or tell what the cops want them to.

In other cities they employ a little more finesse. The third degree is not so brutal. The dicks try to break down the suspect's reason in a more psychological manner. They keep him awake in relays, give him cigarets without a match, put water just out of reach of his parched lips and pound questions into his befuddled brain until he is ready to tell anything just to get a little rest and respite . . .

Synopsis

Pretty Daisy Beaumont is sentenced to a long term in a reformatory when dishonest policemen give false testimony against her. Jim Fitzpatrick, police captain, noted for his honesty, succeeds in having Daisy freed. Four racketeers are found murdered and Fitzpatrick suspects Guiseppe Belmonte, overlord of a huge vice ring. Belmonte is arrested by Fitzpatrick, but succeeds in being released in a hurry. Ed Fitzpatrick, sergeant of the vice squad, promises to help his brother Jim to bring Belmonte to justice. They discover that Daisy is employed by the vice leader. Ed admires Daisy and visits her. She says she is appreciative of what Jim did for her. Jim is transferred to a quiet precinct. When a bank is held up he pursues the robbers with several other officers. Jim is wounded, but the robbers are captured. Belmont plans revenge on Jim with Daisy's help. Daisy, in love with Ed, doesn't like Belmonte's plans. Ed is detailed to guard a fortune in gold bullion being transferred from a bank. Becoming drunk, he plans to steal it himself and reveals his plans to Mike Cholo. The next day the gold is stolen and Lieut. Makowsky is killed while chasing the robbers.

Now Go On

KILLERS IDENTIFIED

"No-neck" Mike Mahaffey and "Ginger Slim" Morgan were not what you would call experienced criminals. That is, not wised up to the higher elements of criminality. They had started off life as sidewalk hustlers, had robbed push carts and chiseled delicatessen owners. They had graduated in time into the class of killers. Until they had gotten in with the Belmonte mob they had always taken their jail sentences philosophically, and they had taken their beatings from the cops much the same way.

They were up against a tough proposition when they were dragged into headquarters along with a score of other members of the Belmonte crowd—because a cop had been killed. The police might approach the rubbing-out of ordinary citizens more or less lackadaisically, even when spurred on by the newspapers, but when one of their own was croaked they took a more than academic interest in the outrage.

Lieut. Makowsky had been shot to death, and he was a personal friend of the chief, attached to his staff—further, he left a widow and two children. And little Mary Ryan, who had been playing in the street, had been slain, shot through the heart by a reckless bullet, and the public and the police were out to get the bandits. The newspapers shouted "baby-killers" and "cop-killers" and again demanded an end to gang rule.

CLAIM INNOCENCE

"No-neck" and "Ginger Slim" had been identified in the line-up by three people as the men who were in the truck and who fled it after they had wrecked it against an elevated pillar and abandoned the $200,000 in gold bullion. In the area-way had been found two pairs of discarded overalls and two greasy hats, but dressed in their punch-backed suits the two were pointed out as the killers. The cigar-store owner, the little boy and an old woman had all seen them. Not only that, but Tom recognized "No-neck" as the man who had leaned out the side of the truck and who had done the shooting.

In the office of Chief Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick the two were sulky and surly and ready with grunted denials.

"We was at a party dat day," protested "No-neck."

"What were you doing at a party that time of day?" demanded Jim, pacing up and down before the slouched figure in the chair.

"It was a card party—we'd been gamblin' all night," he insisted.

"And did you win?"

"Naw. I lose 10 bucks."

"And how much did you lose, Slim?" asked Jim, turning on the other.

"I lose six bucks," muttered "Ginger Slim."

"How many were in the game?"

"Tree o' us—" began Mahaffey.

"Four o' us—" said Slim at the same time.

"Huh!" exclaimed Jim. Then turning to Tom and three other husky detectives who were standing belligerently by, he said: "I guess that's the pay-off; go ahead and work on 'em, boys."

"I ain't done nuttin'," yammered "No-neck."

"Me neidder," whimpered "Ginger Slim."

But strong hands yanked them out of their seats. They were led into two little anterooms just off the chief's office. While Tom guarded "Ginger Slim," the other three worked on "No-neck." Jim had taken a short length of hose out of his desk and handed it to one of the detectives. The two crooks had looked at it furtively, terror in their eyes.

When the three detectives got Mahaffey in the room, bare save for a table and two chairs, one of them tossed him in a seat and wound an arm around his neck. Then he clapped a hand over his mouth.

A second detective set in to beat the table with the rubber hose while the third began to shout and yell. Then came a rapid fire of questions and answers, which, though muffled, could be heard through the partition.

"You dirty skunk, come clean or we'll beat the dirty guts out o' you!" shouted the detective who was assiduously lambasting the table.

"Oh! Oh! Ouch! I ain't done nuttin'," whined the second detective, disguising his voice.

"You shot Lieut. Makowsky and we've got witnesses to prove it—you come clean, or else—" cried the detective with the rubber hose.

"Hones' I didn't—I didn't shoot nobody," came the wailing voice of the second detective.

Mahaffey wriggled and writhed, but he could not get loose from the hammerlock the detective had on him and his own cries and groans were inarticulate sounds.

"Come on, you smelly rat, come clean—or I'll give you the rest," shouted the detective.

"Don' hit me no more—I didn't do nuttin'! I don' know nuttin'," came the distressed voice of the second detective.

"The hell you didn't—here's some more pettin' for you!" cried the detective with the hose. And he pounded the table several smart raps.

"Don't—don't—it wasn' me—it was Slim—he done the shootin'—don' hit me no more—I'll spill de works," came the voice of the detective.

In the other room "Ginger Slim," who had cocked an ear to the sounds, suddenly straightened in his chair.

"Why the squealin' lyin' rat!" he exclaimed. "Sayin' I done the shootin'—passin' me de rap—an' him blazin' away—and croakin' dat li'l baby—an' bull—I'll get on d' stand an' send him to de hot squat——"

Lieut. Deegan jerked him to his feet.

"So you did it, eh?" he exclaimed. "I think I'll take one sweet punch at you." He raised his voice: "Heh, Jim!" he called. "Come in here a minute."

"I don give a damn," shouted "Ginger Slim." "Take a sock at me—but I didn't do nuttin'—it was dat yaller pup what done de shootin'—go ahead, hit me—but I'll prove it."

Jim opened the door.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

"This guy says Mahaffey shot Mac and the kid—and I could hear him coughing up in the next room that this rat done it. I think I'll just take a poke at both of 'em."

"Don't hit him—he'll get his in the chair," said Jim, walking over to the man. "Now, what have you got to say for yourself—that other guy said you did it. We'll use him against you an' let him go for the information he gives—but you're cooked."

"No-neck" sat up suddenly in his chair and a sneer came to his lips.

"Well, yez has got annuder guess comin'. I'm t'inkin'," he snarled. "Yez'll let me go, too—see? For your brudder was in on the deal. He cooked it up. He fixed it wit' Cholo fur us to slug him an' scram wid de gold—whatta yez t'ink o' dat?"

Jim looked at him steadily for a moment and then marched toward him with clenched fists. The other drew back and instictively raised arms before his face.

"I'm talkin' straight," he hurried. "Your brudder Ed was up in dat Daisy dame's joint las' night an' he frames up de hull t'ing. Jest ast him. I ain' gonna take no fall all by meself on a six-way deal. Jest ast him."

Jim sank helplessly on the table and stared out the window. Then he rubbed his hands over his face, got up and walked out of the room.

"See?" grinned "No-neck." "Yez can't do nuttin' wid me—see? Nuttin'."

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

OVER IN the Forties, near Ninth avenue, there is a cheap saloon that has been running full blast for 15 years. It was there before prohibition—and the only difference between those days and these is that the place now has more customers.

Three men run the place. One is the boss, a tough hombre if ever there was one. Another is the bartender, only a step behind the boss when it comes to being the toughest guy in the neighborhood. The boss and this bartender have been together since the saloon opened. The third is the assistant bartender, who is virtually a newcomer to the joint. He has only been there nine years.

Long ago the customers learned to get a kick out of the early hours of Sunday morning. The boss always fires his head bartender. The thing continues to happen without an interlude. And the customers always stick around to see the fun.

At 3 in the morning—sometimes a bit earlier, sometimes a bit later—the boss is terrifically plastered. So is his bartender. The boss looks at him through beery and bleary eyes.

"You're a rat!" the proprietor will suddenly shout. "Don't know why I keep you here at all. You're no good to me. 'Smatter of fact, you hurt my business."

"Oh, yeah?" the bartender retorts, mechanically beginning to remove his apron. "And who do you think you are, hey? If you wanna know something, I'm sick of workin' for you an' your lousy dump. I'm wastin' time, that's what I'm doin'."

Whereupon the boss will stagger to his feet.

"Whadaya mean by callin' this joint a dump?" he will demand. "Where d'ya get that stuff? You get outa here pronto. You're fired!"

The following afternoon, around 2 o'clock, the saloon opens again. The boss is behind the counter, while the assistant has been promoted to head bartender. The old bartender comes in as a customer and orders a drink. He pays for it, and the boss rings it up with evident satisfaction.

After two or three hours the boss and his ex-bartender both reach the mellow stage once again. Suddenly the boss will remove his apron and hand it to the other man.

"Come on, Joe," he will coax, "take your old job back, willya? I'm tired o' standin' back here. I'm sorry I talked that way to you last night. We're real pals, we are."

Whereupon the ex-bartender tucks on the apron, goes behind the bar and becomes head bartender once again. The saloon operates outside the law, and it often harbors some desperate characters. Yet the only excitement these two souls really have are the little parts they play every Saturday night.

It's a strange game, my friends. Very strange . . . .

"DEAR Mr. Hellinger," writes "Frankie," No. 72684, "You are always writing of rackets. I'm a man who is now in jail. And with nothing but time on my hands at the present moment, I think I'll send you one myself.

"The first operation of the racketeer is to buy a morning newspaper and search for a distinguished name among the new arrivals at the better hotels. Let us say, for example, that Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton Fishcake have just come to town and are stopping at the Ambassaritz.

"The racketeer then calls the hotel and asks to be connected with the suite of Mr. Fishcake, the distinguished visitor. As soon as someone answers, the racketeer immediately inquires if a porter had been rung for. Upon being told no, the racketeer seems puzzled and asks for the number of the suite so that he will not make the mistake again. He invariably gets it.

"Once the number of the suite has been obtained, the rest is comparatively simple. The crook immediately calls the hotel again and asks for the cashier. He adopts an important voice and says something along the following lines:

"'Look here, cashier. This is Mr. J. Hamilton Fishcake, suite 1014. I'm expecting a package from Ovingtiff's within a few minutes, but I am unable to wait for it. The bill will run somewhere around $150. Accept it, please, and have it sent to my room. Good day.'

"The crook then calls the package room and goes through practically the same conversation, with the exception of the fact, of course, that he tells the package room to send the bill to the cashier. Awed by the name of J. Hamilton Fishcake, the cashier and the package room rarely check back.

"Some 30 minutes later the racketeer—dressed as delivery boy—walks into the hotel and hands over a bogus bundle for Mr. J. Hamilton Fishcake. The bundle generally contains a nice wad of last week's newspapers. But the package man sends him to the cashier, the cashier pays the bill—and the racketeer walks from the hotel $150 richer than when he entered.

"How's that for a racket, Mark? I know it's true because I worked it myself. As a matter of fact, it was so clever and I worked it so well that I am now doing a year in this jail for being so nimble minded!" . . . .

SOME OF THE best stories never see print. I was told the other night of a remarkable human interest story that never has reached the newspapers because of the tremendous advertising contracts of this particular concern.

A world famous mechanical product was created by and named for a man who is even now working for that company as a mechanic. The man received a million dollars for his creation many years ago. But he lost it all. The company made gigantic strides in the industry and is today one of the most powerful in the world. And the man whose name it bears labors in his overalls to support his family.

Unfortunate investments did the trick. . . .

JUST where Mr. Jack Pearl, last and probably the funniest of all the great German comedians, dug up the yarn, I do not know. But it seldom pays to look a gift gag in the mouth, so here it goes:

A famous actress took herself a husband for the third time in her rather tempestuous career. She was known to be temperamental, and after two years of trying her husband gave it up in disgust. He became a golf addict and promptly forgot his wife.

The lady very promptly became worse than ever. Their home life, as the optimists call it, was nothing more than a series of verbal battles. He no longer humored her. As a matter of fact, he gave her as good as she sent. Which wasn't bad.

One afternoon he picked up his clubs and prepared to set out for the links. His wife looked at him and let out a howl.

"There you go again," she screeched. "Golf, golf, golf—nothing but golf. I honestly believe that if you stayed home one afternoon I would die of the shock."

Her husband grinned and walked to the door.

"Now, dear," he murmured as he departed, "there's no use talking like that. You can't bribe me!"...

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — George Is Resigned

WELL GEORGE I KNOW YOU'RE ALWAYS TALKING ABOUT WHAT YOU CONSIDER MORE IMPORTANT MATTERS, BUT I'VE CERTAINLY BEEN IN THE DUMPS SINCE MR. EL DORADO HAD THAT BREAKDOWN JUST AT THE MOMENT HE WAS GOING TO MARRY PEGGY.
MARRY HER? WHY THEY WEREN'T EVEN ENGAGED. HE WAS MERELY—
ALL THAT WOULD HAVE FOLLOWED PEGGY'S NEW INTEREST IN HIM. NOW HE'S GONE TO EUROPE, TO ONE OF THOSE PLACES I SUPPOSE, WHERE HE'LL MEET SOME CAT-EYED VAMP AND THEN GOOD-BYE EVERYTHING!
HE'S BEEN IN CIRCULATION A LONG TIME. IF HE WAS SUCH A BARGAIN WHY DIDN'T SOME VAMP GRAB HIM ON HIS OTHER TRIPS TO—
A MAN WHOSE HEALTH ISN'T JUST SO IS DIFFERENT, ESPECIALLY WHEN HE'S AWAY FROM HOME. I'VE OFTEN SEEN PICTURES IN THE PAPER OF THOSE WOMEN SWAGGERING ALONG THE BOULEVARDS OF EUROPE, BUT I NEVER EVEN DREAMED THAT THE DAY WOULD COME WHEN I'D BE AFRAID OF THEM.
IMAGINE!
WELL ANYHOW SUCH IS LIFE. OUR LOSS IS EUROPE'S GAIN.
IN MY OPINION HE'S OVER-STOCKED ON PROTECTION. NOBODY WILL EVER FALL IN LOVE WITH HIM AT FIRST SIGHT AND THE WOMAN WHO MARRIES HIM KNOWS SHE'LL HAVE TO ACCEPT HIS HARD-BOILED LOOK ALONG WITH HIS MONEY, ALSO—OH GEORGE BUNGLE DON'T TALK SO LIGHT-MINDEDLY ABOUT A VERY SERIOUS AFFAIR. HA, PEGGY IS ANOTHER ONE WHO LOOKS AT THIS MATTER VERY CALMLY. WHAT A GIFT!

THE NEBBS — Itty Bitty

WE'RE STILL AT THE HEARING OF THE DIVORCE SUIT BETWEEN SYLLY AND ANABY AND STILL HAVE HOPES THAT THIS THING CAN BE SETTLED OUT OF COURT.
ARE YOU SATISFIED TO TRY THIS CASE WITH A JURY?
I AM, YOUR HONOR - AND WE'RE HERE TO OPPOSE THE PLEA FOR DIVORCE - AND, YOUR HONOR, THE ATTORNEY FOR THE PLAINTIFF HAS NOT STATED THE FACTS - MRS. POTTS HAS BEEN DRAWING CHECKS ON HIS BANK (WITHOUT AN ACCOUNT) FOR LARGER AMOUNTS THAN HER ALLOWANCE WAS BEFORE HE LEFT, AND THEY WERE ALL HONORED
DID YOU WRITE CHECKS ON THE BANK?
A FEW ITTY BITTY ONES
ITTY BITTY? ONE WAS FOR $10.00 - THAT'S PAST BEING ITTY BITTY
I'LL SET THIS CASE FOR TRIAL ON FEBRUARY 1 ST. AND I'LL LET THE MATTER OF ALIMONY STAND AS IT IS - I BELIEVE MR. POTTS WILL HONOR HER CHECKS WITHIN REASON UNTIL THEN

The New Tax Board

The Members Appear to be Well Qualified for Their Important Work.

The Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes is a prime factor in determining whether or not the elections are to be honest. The board that recently went out of office was blamed for many of the irregularities in last year's elections. Two of its members were indicted.

With these things fresh in mind, unusual interest attaches to the character and qualifications of the members of the new board, appointed yesterday by the County Commissioners.

The appointees include several close personal and political friends of the Commissioners, and a brother of Commissioner C. M. Barr, yet all appear to be peculiarly qualified for the work they are being called upon to do.

Barr's brother, for example, has been a bond salesman for 25 years—an experience which will stand him in good stead in his work in the personal property department, which levies taxes on securities.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern's friend, John Francies, is well informed on taxation matters through his service as County Treasurer.

The other appointees also seem to have special qualifications for their jobs.

Positions on the Tax Board have often gone heretofore to politicians utterly lacking in training or experience of the kind that might reasonably be demanded in such officials. The new appointments are accordingly a great improvement.

The expenses of the board have been reduced $18,300 a year, and the promise is made that the members will all be actively engaged in their duties.

The County Commissioners in this are apparently really anxious to serve the people.

A Great Convention

Pittsburgh Is Honored in Being Chosen for the 1934 Meeting of the Association to Advance Science.

Aside from the Republican and Democratic National conventions, the American Legion convention and possibly one or two others, there is no assemblage that attracts more attention than the annual gathering of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The papers read at its meetings, the scientific discoveries announced, not only are reported in the newspapers throughout the country, but attract the notice of the foreign press as well. Indeed they often form the subjects of books and magazine articles for months after the convention ends.

Pittsburgh is honored in having been chosen as the place for the 1934 meeting of the association. During Christmas week of that year this is to be the abode of thousands of America's brainiest men, a distinction not to be underestimated.

In announcing that the association is to meet here, the Chamber of Commerce remarks that the delegates will exceed 10,000, and it will accordingly be the largest convention in the city's history.

What a pity that our largest auditorium will comfortably accommodate only about one-third of the delegates!

What a pity that we do not have a Town Hall seating at least 15,000, so that not only all the delegates but also a few thousand Pittsburghers could attend the general sessions of the whole association!

The work of the convention will be transacted, of course, by many small groups meeting independently of one another; otherwise it would be impossible to hold the meeting here. But it would improve the convention if it were possible for all to meet under the same roof.

The people of Allegheny County voted $6,000,000 of bonds to pay for a Town Hall. When are the County Commissioners going to comply with this mandate of the people?

Nip It in the Bud!

Tuberculosis Is on the Increase, But It Can be Cured if Given Early Treatment.

A pathetic story came from Greene County recently. The family of a coal miner in straitened circumstances, received money regularly from a daughter in New York. She had gone there to get a position and had written that she was receiving a large salary. But it developed that her wages were really meager and that she had been starving herself so as to be able to send home the weekly remittance. This they learned when she came back, dead from tuberculosis contracted from going without adequate nourishment.

Dr. C. B. Maits, Director of Public Health, and the State Health Department as well, report that tuberculosis is on the increase because of the unusually large number of people who are in need of food and clothing.

This makes the meeting of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society, which convened in Pittsburgh yesterday, of extraordinary importance. The message comes from the authorities that the disease can be cured but should be treated in the early stages. It is to be hoped the warning will be widely circulated.

A Fine School Record

More Than 260,000 Pennsylvania Pupils Were Neither Absent Nor Tardy Last Year.

Shakespeare spoke of "the whining school boy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like snail unwillingly to school."

That does not apply to Pennsylvania. More than 260,000 boys and girls attending Pennsylvania public schools had perfect records last year. They were not absent a single day, not tardy once.

The number of Pennsylvania children with perfect attendance records exceeds the total school enrollment of Arizona, or Delaware, or Idaho, or Maine, or Montana, or Nevada, or New Hampshire, or New Mexico, or North Dakota, or Oregon, or Rhode Island, or South Dakota, or Utah, or Vermont, or Wyoming.

It is a tribute to the attractiveness of the schools and the teachers.

De-Lighting the World -:- By Nelson Harding

It gives the world a laugh to see
The plight of poor Miss Liberty,
As foolishly she has to stand,
An empty bag held in her hand.

The debtors do not have the blues
As they observe those I Owe Yous,
So long as she stands patiently
A statue of credulity.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

If Love Becomes Obsolete

There are times when I can't help wondering what I should do for a living if love and marriage should ever go completely out of fashion. Things are so changeable and uncertain these days.

* * *

One writer plans, "if the writing racket fails," to manufacture "pistol-pockets for bridge gowns." Another contemplates making "torso trunks that won't seep."

* * *

But, when you think of it, it's only now and then that you need a pistol or a "torso-trunk," whereas there are hundreds of daily necessities that would fill a long-felt want.

* * *

Oh, well, if the love racket fails and marriage becomes obsolete, I'll just put the little typewriter away and do something practical.

* * *

Perhaps I'll invent a lip rouge that won't come off on the collar. Or a linen collar that won't show the lip rouge.

Or patent an arm-rest for the backs of taxicabs and rumble-seats. Just to save a man a lot of argument and energy, and a girl a lot of money for fresh marcels.

* * *

Or I might manufacture a non-breakable glass screen to go across the middle of bridge-tables, so that husbands and wives could hurl things at each other without hitting anybody.

* * *

Or I might design an ash-proof rug and a gravyproof tablecloth, for careless husbands and fastidious wives. Or originate a way of cooking spinach, so that it would look and taste like buckwheat cakes and sausage. Or make a finger-trap for people who insist on using guest-towels.

* * *

Or I might discover a serum that will turn a brunette baby-girl into a platinum-blonde, at birth. Or a sedative that would take the "pep" out of a middle-aged married man and make him be his age.

Or I might devise a fool-proof system of making love, without committing yourself, for eligible bachelors. Or originate a list of brand new, wife-proof alibis—for wandering husbands and wives who are weary of the old ones.

* * *

Or, if all else failed, I could run for Congress on the promise to introduce a bill requiring divorce records to be printed on the back of all marriage certificates.

* * *

Oh, yes, there are lots of ways for a bright girl to earn a living, if she will keep her ear to the ground and consider the popular demand for convenient little devices.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Vagaries of radio audiences produce more heart-breaks among artists than movies or theaters. So sudden are shifts in the broadcasting picture, performers may attain a sudden furore and within the year find themselves "at liberty." In the studios they warn: "Don't get popular!"

Many star names are signed for not more than two months. The radio performer and the especial act exploited undergo, in the majority of interests, the same process as the play or movie. There is either a short or long run and audiences demand a change.

The continued success of Amos 'n' Andy is reputed to be due to the fact that they present a continued story with different theme every few weeks. Vallee has held the crown as crooner. But stiff opposition has developed in the broadcasts of Bing Crosby and Russ Colombo.

As the story goes, Crosby was scoring in occasional broadcasts on the coast and was offered a nation-wide hookup but could not accept it due to prior movie contracts. In the meantime Colombo, a violinist, was rushed in as a crooner and took the edge off Crosby's style.

Floyd Gibbons, in many respects, was the most sensational of all radio mushroom discoveries. He held listeners for two years and then went in for movie shorts. He was sent off to Manchuria on the eve of the biggest contract ever signed in a new radio hookup.

He sacrificed it because of his love for roaming commissions as a war correspondent. He is a reporter first and has never been quite happy since deserting journalism. The qualities that make for radio success cannot be judged in ordinary ways.

Uncannily, it picks up obscurities—such as the Mills brothers—and elevates them to heights in a few days. Whereas great movie and stage stars often meet a wall of indifference on the air. Kate Smith, on the other hand, with bits in musical shows, becomes one of the great attractions of the air.

Wellington Cross was accosted by a begger for a dime for coffee. "But a cup of coffee is only a nickle," said Duke, handing the moocher a 5-cent piece. Accepting it, the panhandler shuffled off, but after a few steps turned and called, "You should tell me my business!"

* * *

A quick shower eddied me with others in a West Forty-seventh street doorway the other afternoon. In front, side by side, stood a lady and gentleman. Turning to face each other at the same instant, each gave a quick start. She murmured: "George," he whispered, "Florence," they embraced, the sun came out and off they walked arm in arm for the world like a finale fadeout in the films.

* * *

In the smoking compartment of a Santa Fe train one summer I struck up conversation with a stranger—trivialities inspired by the tedium of travel. A lady lurching through the coaches turned in by mistake. When she saw the stranger, she clutched at her throat and he stood up, suddenly white-faced. I withdrew. That evening they sat on the observation platform in the moonlight, each at intervals wiping away tears.

The most consistent twentieth century commuter between Chicago and New York is John Cuneo, head of America's largest printing establishment. He frequently makes two trips a week. Gilbert Miller is the leading trans-Atlantic zealot, averaging a dozen crossings yearly.

"In my travels"—says, he building himself up—"it strikes me the Englishman crosses oceans or continents with greatest ease and comfort. It may be a heritage from colonizing forefathers. But somehow I suspect that magnificent calm that the Britisher alone finds in his pipe."

The most accomplished American pipe smoker I know is Bob Brinkerhoff, the cartoonist. I saw him light up with one match on the windy top of the Empire Building.

In a boyhood diary I found this quotation: "To Mr. Cox's for two yards of best quality muslin for Grandma."

Life was an elegant adventure in those best-quality-muslin days, if only to hear Grandma say "O, toot!" when annoyed.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Here is a letter YOU have been meaning to write:

Dear Miss Robinson:

I do wish you would write something about meddlers and busybodies who come buzzing around, asking a lot of questions about your personal business. Just what are you supposed to say when they ask—for instance—what salary your husband gets . . . how much do you make . . . what did your new car cost . . . do you send your family any money . . . how could you afford that new coat, etc.

These people look me right in the eye and honestly I feel so embarrassed I could run away. I do not want to hurt their feelings and I certainly won't lie. Yet, on the other hand, I don't want to give out such personal information. Do you ever meet up with meddlers like this, Miss Robinson. And if so, what do you do?

C. F., Redwood, Cal.

Do I meet up with meddlesome meddlers? Lady, columnists seldom meet up with Anything Else But. I've had them ask me everything, from did-my-great-grandpa-like-likker (I'll say he did!) to what's-my-favorite-corn-cure (snake oil, lady, applied at midnight in the southeast corner of a Chinese graveyard.)

Now I'll admit that, at first, these inquiries did get me huffed up. After one of these tell-me sessions I'd sit right down and howl like a bee-stung pup. Why, oh why, couldn't they keep out of my affairs . . . lemme alone . . . mind their own daggone business? Thus I raved, on and on—

But gradually I began to see that this was buying me nothing. Instead, it was putting me in the red. I was spending so much time and energy in getting peeved, that I had no time left to attend to my regular chores. And, so I evolved a sort of philosophy for myself. As follows—

I decided that the world was a very large place and filled with many peculiar and unpleasant things. Bugs, for instance. Subway crowds. Mud. Bad smells. Crooners. Tripe. Pollyannas. Guys with sticky hands and sticky eyes. Daily dozens. Vegetable Plates. Marcelled Males. Love Starved Females. Hives. And millions n' millions of other common nuisances.

Yes, life was like that. Just one upsetting experience after another. But what could I do about it? Nothing. Life had not been invented for my personal convenience or pleasure. Whether I liked it or not, this was the Status Quo. If I couldn't get along with it . . . If I allowed every tantalizing trifle to get my goat . . . why that was just my bad luck.

But, of course, I didn't allow everything to get my goat. Long ago I trained myself to stand a multitude of common annoyances without busting into big, wet, bleats of rage and self-pity. Flies, for example. I can face flies and swat flies without thinking that Fate has stacked the cards against me. I can feel a fly buzzing around without flushing with embarrassment or shuddering with dread.

"Then why," said I to myself, "can't you face meddlers and busybodies with equal aplomb? They're just another form of Common Nuisance. You'll find them everywhere—you'll always have to cope with them—just as you do with flies. Then why not treat them as you do flies?

AND SO I DO.

Not always, of course. They still get my goat—frequently. But generally I manage to laugh their buzzing off. Once when they fixed me with their beady eyes and hurled highly personal questions at me, I writhed with embarrassment, and fear lest I affront them by showing that embarrassment. Now I am no longer embarrassed. If anyone should be embarrassed, they should be, because of their own rudeness—not I. And as for "hurting their feelings"—PEOPLE WHO ASK QUESTIONS LIKE THAT SHOULD HAVE THEIR FEELINGS HURT. AND WHY SHOULD I TRY TO RELIEVE THEM OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF THEIR OWN CUSSEDNESS?

Democratic Prospects; The Two-Thirds Rule

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era," and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

No one surveying the political field can reach any other conclusion than that Mr. Hoover is doomed in his race for re-election unless the Democrats prefer to fight one another. This is the opinion of Republicans. The Republican cloakrooms of House and Senate buzz with this pessimistic talk. Nothing but tradition and party expediency restrains the Republicans from turning to another candidate. Because of the Republican situation in the South, a Republican President is hopelessly entrenched in patronage. And, after all, a denial of another nomination to Mr. Hoover would be an admission that his has been an administration of failure. The press reports that the President himself is giving no thought to the subject are clearly untrue; extraordinary precautions are being taken to secure his renomination. And Mr. Hoover is perfectly cognizant of them. He will be the nominee. He will run on the record of his administration. And he will be defeated unless the Democrats turn from fighting the Republicans to fighting one another. That is the administration hope.

* * *

Fight Is Expected Before Convention

The fact that various Democrats are aspiring to the nomination does not carry the implication of factional quarrels and fights. Any Democrat of distinction, having any following, has a perfect right to be a candidate. Most of those thus far mentioned are of Presidential caliber, and most have earned the right to the consideration of their party. Some may be eliminated solely on the ground of present-day availability; some because they do not fit in with paramount issues. Each will be supported with zeal by enthusiastic friends, and some of these friends will say and do foolish and impolitic things, as friends always do. The fight may wax hot, and there is a possibility of the fight being prolonged. But all of this is legitimate and not unusual. The one thing necessary is that whoever is named shall be the choice of the party and of a majority of the convention.

* * *

Two-thirds Rule Opposes Democracy

The Democrats have ruined their opportunities on two or three occasions by ignoring the will of the majority in the making of the nominations; and this has been possible only because of the two-thirds rule. It should never have been adopted in the first place. It wars with the first principle of democracy—a principle so vital to democracy that Jefferson set it forth in his famous first inaugural address, having been adopted in 1832 to meet a momentary exigency, to confound the complaint of the foes of the Jackson administration that it was trying to force the nomination of Martin Van Buren over the will of the majority. Thus the Jacksonians, thorough believers in the rule of the majority, insisted on a two-thirds vote to show that they were not even dependent on a mere majority.

But it should have been abrogated immediately afterward. It was the irony of fate that the first victim of this rule was Van Buren himself, when, as a candidate for the presidency in 1848, he got a majority of the votes, but was defeated by the two-thirds rule. That bitter contest with that result created a party schism which led to the defeat of the nominee of the convention at the polls. The same thing happened in 1860 when Stephen A. Douglas got a majority in the Charleston convention and lost the nomination. There was but one other instance—in 1912; and the conditions in the campaign following, due to the third party movement of Theodore Roosevelt, made it possible for the Democrats to win if they did nothing at all.

* * *

Urges Abrogation of Convention Rule

It is a strange thing that every four years through all the generations we have a revival of the discussion of the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. Always the danger to party harmony is stressed; always the undemocratic nature of the rule is cited, and never in recent years has any impressive justification of its retention been advanced. The trouble in each instance has been that when the subject has been broached the convention was close at hand and the principle itself has been confused in the candidacies. Thus the politicians consider the abrogation in the light of its possible effect on one candidate or another.

Thus far the pre-convention campaign has not opened, the selection of delegates has not begun, and but two candidates openly are in the field. There are indications that there will be a number of candidacies soon, and all ought to be willing to agree that he who gets the majority of the votes shall be the nominee.

This should be all the easier because, except where bitter personalities dominate the convention, there is an unwritten law that whenever a candidate polls more than a majority his nomination is conceded. This is almost certain to be followed in the next convention.

* * *

Wilson Disapproved the Two-thirds Rule

It is a remarkable fact that the Republicans should have a more democratic rule than the Democrats. All the more remarkable since small groups of politicians in Republican conventions usually dictate the nomination—under the majority rule.

We recently saw an unpublished letter by Woodrow Wilson, written in 1912, expressive of his disapproval of the two-thirds rule. He based his opposition on the principle of the thing; because his personal interests would have swayed him the other way, with Champ Clark sweeping the country in the primaries.

Our own opinion is that any time is a good time to restore the rule of the majority; but if the abrogation can never become applicable to the convention that takes the action, it can and should be abrogated in all future conventions.

* * *

Sectional Prejudice Should Be Abolished

For many years the South was opposed to the abrogation. This may go back to the bitter sectional contest in the convention of 1860; or it may be due to the fact that for some years after the war of the states the South, tortured, persecuted and weak, found in it the one possibility of protecting its interest. All that has passed—passed with the "bloody shirt" and with the lies of the "historians." We hope to live to attend the inauguration of a President from south of the Ohio River. No one with any degree of intelligence entertains these sectional prejudices any more. There is just as much statesmanship in the section of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Marshall, Calhoun, Underwood and Lamar as in the North—and everyone knows it.

* * *

Democrats Are Moving Like Certain Victors

Thus far the Democrats have moved like certain victors.

They passed through the recent meeting in Washington, where their enemies hoped for a Donnybrook Fair, without weakening their chances one iota.

They are all now uniting in raising the money necessary for the waging of a campaign of education; and there is no dissension in that.

The National Committee has been doing extraordinarily fine work in management and publicity.

In Congress, under competent leadership, they have not made a single false step.

All over the country they are bubbling with enthusiasm and confidence.

The last hope of their enemies is in the convention; and no matter how hot the fight there, they should still emerge undamaged if in regard to platform and candidate the rule of the majority is maintained.
